Despite Poll Results, Ike Plans No Change In Strategy

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower, conceding he is not completely happy over reports of Democratic resurgence at the polls, vows he plans no changes in the political and legislative courses he already has charted.

The job of his administration, he told his news conference yesterday, is to provide a dynamic and forward-looking program for the country. He said his administration will continue toward that goal, believing that it will win.

Eisenhower declined to appraise the results of Tuesday's elections, which included surprise Democratic victories in New Jersey, in terms of reaction to his administration's policies or actions.

He told reporters he just didn't know, and they would have to do their own analyzing.

The President volunteered, to open the news conference, that he was not completely pleased and happy with some of Tuesday's state and local election results. But he added:

"I have lost skirmishes before."

TAKING UP the strategy, a reporter asked whether he intended to win the war, presumably the 1954 elections.

He never went in a war to lose one, the President replied.

Questioning came back time and again to politics, specifically to the elections of Tuesday. In them, the Democrats swept to victory in the New York City mayoral race, elected a governor and a congressman in recently Republican New Jersey, held the Virginia governorship, and made gains in numerous local elections.

This showing in heavily populated Eastern areas came at a time when most politicians were saying there were definite signs of opposition to the administration in Midwestern and Southern farm areas.

These factors seemed to many political observers to add up to a

Editor Opinions Vary On News Evaluation

CHICAGO (AP)—Like many people who read their newspapers, America's editors have widely varied opinions on handling the news.

This was demonstrated yesterday when news executives attending the annual meeting of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn. discussed news coverage of Sen. Joseph McCarthy's activities and the Kinsey report on "Sexual Behavior of the Human Female."

The evaluation of the Kinsey report ranged from Page 1 news story to a publicity plant not worth newspaper space. McCarthy was described as a "cheap demagogue" by one editor, while another said the Wisconsin Republican has made significant revelations which all newspapers have not fully treated.

Sam H. Day, of the New York Journal American, said his newspaper played the Kinsey report on Page 1 to give the public the news. He said the reaction to readers was evenly divided.

Ed Dooley, of the Denver Post, said he regarded the Kinsey report as more dangerous to the public morals than "Tobacco Road." Some editors didn't print news stories on the report at all while others said they carried only brief stories on inside pages.

Another Turnpike Contract Is Let

TOLEDO (AP)—Eight miles of the Ohio Turnpike in Sandusky County will be built by the W. L. Johnson Construction Co. of Columbus at a cost of $7,102,409.

The Ohio Turnpike Commission yesterday awarded the work to that company, putting $154,213,012 of turnpike roadway and bridges under contract.

Contracts for 170 miles of roadway and bridges of the 241-mile superroad are contracted for. Oct. 1, 1955, has been set as the opening date for the entire turnpike, although the eastern end will open earlier.

Hedges Begins Study Of City Health Board

Circleville's Mayor-elect Robert E. Hedges moved cautiously into the tangled affairs centered on City Hall Thursday by announcing plans to "bring new life" into activities of the city health board.

Winner over Democrat Councilman John Robinson in the mayoralty voting Tuesday, Hedges emphasized he is approaching the duties of the city health with an open mind on major problems. He indicated some of the first efforts of his administration will be aimed at the health board—controlling body for the municipal health department.

The successful Republican candidate said:

"I understand the health board is supposed to be holding four meetings a year. My idea is to get it back on its feet and get the board's problems worked out. 'This, of course, will have to be done by finding out the facts as we move along. Nothing in the way of needed improvements can be done suddenly without the risk of hurting innocent parties.'"

Hedges said the health board should have five members, but that only three members have been listed for a long time. The present members, he said, are Dr. Ray Carroll, Mrs. Charles Kirkpatrick and Mrs. Robert Young.

The mayor-elect declined to disclose any additional plans he has lined up for the immediate future.

County Woman Held For Theft

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Federal Bureau of Investigation yesterday said it had arrested a Pickaway County woman in connection with thefts of money and merchandise from the post exchange at Lockbourne Air Force Base.

The FBI identified the woman as 27-year-old Mrs. Elaine F. Bower of Ashville, a sales clerk. Special Agent Harvey G. Foster said Mrs. Bower's arrest followed an investigation by the FBI and Air Force authorities.

Mrs. Bower was arraigned before U. S. Commissioner Robert W. Newton and ordered held on $1,000 bond for federal court action.

Fire Hits Hotel

CLEVELAND (AP)—Firemen rescued 20 persons by ladders in a fire at the Perkins Hotel last night. An additional 150 residents were able to leave by hotel exits after the blaze started from an unknown cause in a fourth-floor suite. Damage was estimated at about $9,500.

Poor Man's Atom-Smasher Is Perfected In California

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP)—A poor man's atom smasher, called a swindler because it seems to get something for nothing, is being built here at the University of California.

This relatively small instrument will produce a beam of atomic particles bearing charges of one million volts each, even though it uses only a half-million volt power source.

It is intended to do work now done by larger and more expensive apparatus, such as the Van De Graaf generator and the Cockcroft-Walton voltage multiplier. They are much used in low energy atomic research.

A full-sized 4-million volt swindler can be built for $10,000 to $50,000 while the other machines of that caliber cost $100,000 to $200,000, said Dr. John R. Woodward who is supervising the building of the one-million volt pilot model.

The pilot model consists mainly of a tube 6 feet long with a few gadgets surrounding it.

IT USES hydrogen atoms for ammunition. A hydrogen atom is composed of a positively charged nucleus, called a proton, and a single negatively charged electron. This makes the normal atom electrically neutral.

At the starting end of the tube the electron is burned off the atom with heat. The resulting positively charged proton is started through the tube with a modest 30,000-volt jolt of electricity.

First the proton passes through a very thin sheet of aluminum, from which it picks up two negative electrons and thus becomes negatively charged.

Further down the tube is a second sheet of aluminum bearing a half-million volt positive charge. The negative particle is attracted to this positive surface with a half-million volt burst of speed.

As it goes through the second aluminum sheet it is robbed of its two electrons and becomes positive again. Because the second aluminum sheet and the particle now are both positive, the particle is repelled. A easy traveling at a half-million volt clip, it picks up another half-million volts of energy because of the repulsion. Then it bangs into a target with a total energy of a million volts.

Technically called a charge exchange accelerator, the new gadget already has shown its builders some new things about electrical circuits and has pointed the way toward new uses for plastics in electrical insulation.

Old Man Winter Gives His First Warning Of Season

Top U. S. Chieftains Show Little Hope Of Negotiating Soon With Russians

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower and Secretary of State Dulles apparently have despaired of negotiating major world problems with Russia any time soon on a basis acceptable to them.

The Soviets two days ago rebuffed the latest invitation from the United States, Britain and France to attend a foreign ministers' meeting on Germany and Austria.

The Western powers are due to consult today on their next move. Informal sources said it was questionable whether any further bid would be sent to the Kremlin.

The Western governments are far more concerned about the impact of Moscow's latest message on opinion in France and elsewhere in western Europe than they are about Russia's behavior in the present circumstances. The United States in particular has been pressing for early approval of the projected six-nation European Defense Community (EDC).

If, for reasons of western European politics, there is pressure to send another message to Moscow, it likely will be sent.

But if, as officials here hope, Russian opposition to negotiation about Germany or anything else on terms acceptable to the West is now sufficiently established to promote EDC ratification, then the long series of East-West exchanges will be dropped.

President Eisenhower, in an extraordinary statement issued yesterday at his news conference, accused the Soviet Union of blocking all along the line attempts by the United States and its allies to "get to grips with the Soviet" on major world problems.

He said the Russians' "negative" note had not only rejected a bid to a foreign ministers meeting on Germany and Austria at Lugano, Switzerland, next Monday, but had also set up "impossible conditions" in a move to "prevent such a conference."

Putting it another way, the President said the Russians showed no sign of wanting to get together with the Western powers but, on the contrary, disclosed "an intention to create as many difficulties as possible."

In the present case, he recalled American efforts going back to last July toward arranging a meeting on German unification and Austrian independence. He mentioned efforts in the United Nations to limit arms and restrict atomic weapons. He referred to negotiations for a Korean political conference.

Overall, the President said, peace is the American goal and this country will continue to "be ready to discuss any issue with the Soviet under conditions which provide a clear and dependable basis for agreement."

That no such basis exists now has been fully demonstrated by the exchange of notes over Germany. The latest Russian note attacked the whole Western defense system and the EDC particularly. Under EDC West Germany would be rearm.

The position of the United States, Britain and France is that Russia should agree to unification of Germany without killing EDC because they argue, the defense organization would strengthen European stability and peace.

Every Moscow paper spread accounts of the Russian reply over a full page. The reply reiterated the Soviet demand for a big five conference, including Communist China, which would be designed to ease world tensions. There would be separate talks, without China, about Germany.

Red Stalling Bogging Down 'Explanations' To Prisoners

PANMUNJOM (AP)—Communist efforts to coax home anti-Red Chinese and Korean war prisoners was almost halted today as stalling Red persuaders dragged out interviews and walked out during even minor disputes.

Only 136 prisoners were interviewed all day. And only two of the 136 returned to communism.

This was the smallest number of POWs to appear before Red ex-plainers in any one day and was only a fraction of the 492 prisoners the Communists asked to see.

There was growing speculation here that the Reds might be preparing to call off explanations which have won back only a handful of balking prisoners.

It was the second straight day of slowdown tactics by Communist teams trying to change the minds of prisoners who have rejected repatriation.

EVEN THOUGH interviews averaged about 1 hour and 20 minutes each the Reds chalked up their poorest score in seven days of explanations. Less than 1.5 per cent of the prisoners said they would go back to their Red-ruled homelands.

Only 61 of 2,020 prisoners interviewed to date have agreed to go back.

Lt. Gen. K. S. Thimayya, Indian chairman of the Neutral Nations Repatriation Commission broke up some long interviews with prisoners who obviously were anti-Red.

"This is absurd," he said. "It's got to stop."

Several Swiss members of repatriation commission groups supervising the explanations walked out as they did yesterday in protest against Communist tactics.

Meanwhile, Arthur Dean, U. S.

Britain To Continue Pressing For Conferences With Soviet

LONDON (AP)—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden said today Britain will continue to press for talks with the Soviet "at any level."

Eden told the House of Commons: "The House will see that despite the disappointments our broad purpose remains unchanged. If others choose to slam their doors and barricade them ours will remain open. Talks at any level remain our objective, for our work is a work for peace which we shall not abandon."

The chamber reverberated with cheers as Eden wound up a foreign affairs speech with this statement, which obviously kept alive the plans of Prime Minister Churchill for talks between the heads of the big three Western powers and Soviet Premier Georgie Malenkov.

The "disappointments" to which Eden referred were obviously the continued Russian rejection or evasion of a Western invitation to join in foreign minister talks on the future of Germany and Austria.

EDEN SAID the latest Soviet note, ignoring a Western invitation to discuss Germany and Austria at a Big Four foreign ministers meeting at Lugano, Switzerland, Nov. 9, laid down "extensive and unacceptable conditions."

"If we accepted those conditions, that would undermine our security and make it impossible for Germany to regain her unity in freedom," he told the House.

Speaking in a foreign affairs debate on the speech of Queen Elizabeth at the opening of Parliament "It is hard to find any sign that the Soviet government has modified its fundamental hostility to the Western nations."

"Their propaganda continues just as before," Eden told the House of Commons. "It is to be carried out through strikes, through the fomenting of anti-American feeling and exploiting colonial unrest."

"Nor is it encouraging to see what is happening behind the Iron Curtain. The policy of lighter control in Eastern Germany of which there was some evidence after the death of Stalin, has been abandoned and we now see a new period of oppression."

Kreber Hinted Getting Old Job

COLUMBUS (AP)—Majr. Gen. Leo M. Kreber of Columbus, commanding general of the 37th Infantry Division at Camp Polk, La., can have back his old post as Ohio adjutant general if he wants it, Gov. Frank J. Lausche indicates.

Asked about reports Kreber will resume his role as adjutant general early next year, Lausche said: "It has always been my policy that when an individual is taken from a peacetime job and called to war, his job when he returns should be available to him. He has a moral right to it."

The man gave his name as Jesse Pierce and said he owned two restaurants in Chicago. He was quoted as saying he brought the 10 ounces of heroin here because "I needed some fast money to pay off debts."

Imported Police Chief To Be Fired

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Police Chief Edward J. Allen, brought here six years ago from Erie, Pa. by Mayor Charles P. Henderson to smash the rackets, is leaving with the defeated Republican mayor.

Mayor-elect Frank X. Kryzan, a 39-year-old attorney who edged Henderson by 1,496 votes out of more than 62,000 cast in the mayoral contest Tuesday, said he would pick a new chief from the department ranks. Kryzan is a Democrat.

Midwest Sees Snows Come, Mercury Fall

Northern Ohio Records White Stuff; More Due To Come By Tonight

By The Associated Press Remember how only a few short weeks ago you sweltered in the summer heat, how you wished for cool weather?

Well, you're getting it. Summer has about run its course. Instead, Old Man Winter is unlimbering his tools—and you then, perhaps, will appreciate all that summer heat.

Old Man Winter stepped on the stage early today as the season's coldest weather, accompanied by snow, came with a biting sting to the Midwest.

Michigan's Port Huron area was hit with a sudden 12-inch snowstorm which caught city workers off guard and snarled traffic until snow crews could be mobilized. The heavy fall was local in nature, but lesser amounts were widespread.

The snow carpet spread as far south as Indiana where it accumulated to a depth of two inches at Gary and Calumet. More than four inches fell in the Chicago area, turning to slush on streets and sidewalks.

In Ohio, Cleveland and Akron recorded their first snows of the season. But they didn't stay on the warm ground long.

However, the weatherman predicts more snow flurries for the northern part of the state tonight. The temperature, he said, would range from 20 along Lake Erie to 28 farther south in the state—all below freezing.

Wide areas in the northeast part of the nation received snowfalls which were light in sections.

The lowest temperatures of the season were recorded throughout most of the northern and central Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region. Cold spots included Grantsburg, Wis., where the mercury dipped to 1 above zero, and Elkader, Iowa, where it was 6 above. Near zero readings were general in northern Wisconsin.

COLD AIR from Canada blowing across the warmer air of the Great Lakes resulted in the snow flurry activity in the Lakes Region and in the northern Appalachians.

Rain continued along the Gulf states and into west Texas and parts of western Oklahoma and Kansas. Snow fell along the northern edge of the rain belt in extreme southwestern Nebraska with Imperial reporting 1 inch on the ground.

Some locally heavy rainfall amounts occurred along the Gulf Coast with Pensacola, Fla., reporting nearly 2 inches during the night.

Rain also fell in Washington and Oregon and in parts of southern California. Clear skies extended from the Northern Rockies through the Northern Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley.

One of the lowest readings early today was 6 above at Grantsburg, Wis.

His opinion, the President replied, is that the kind of change the people wanted is an orderly and progressive one, not just any kind, and that they were going to get it and are getting it.

Did he plan, in view of Tuesday's results, to reappraise his legislative program?

No, Eisenhower said.

Township Trustees, Officials Of County Villages Are Named

Tabulations were completed Thursday on the township and village contests in Tuesday's general election.

However, while the township trustees and officials of the villages have been named, more work is needed to tabulate votes for local boards of education because of overlapping school districts both in this county and adjacent counties.

In many of the villages, the officials were selected by write-in votes and only one mayor's contest, that one in Tilton, heightened interest. All of the township trustees had filed for their posts.

County elections board workers sorted through a total vote of 6,132 electors to name the trustees for the 15 townships of the county.

COMPLETE list of the elected trustees and village officials follows:

Midwest Sees Snows Come, Mercury Fall

Northern Ohio Records White Stuff; More Due To Come By Tonight

By The Associated Press

Remember how only a few short weeks ago you sweltered in the summer heat, how you wished for cool weather?

Well, you're getting it. Summer has about run its course. Instead, Old Man Winter is unlimbering his tools—and you then, perhaps, will appreciate all that summer heat.

Old Man Winter stepped on the stage early today as the season's coldest weather, accompanied by snow, came with a biting sting to the Midwest.

Michigan's Port Huron area was hit with a sudden 12-inch snowstorm which caught city workers off guard and snarled traffic until snow crews could be mobilized. The heavy fall was local in nature, but lesser amounts were widespread.

The snow carpet spread as far south as Indiana where it accumulated to a depth of two inches at Gary and Calumet. More than four inches fell in the Chicago area, turning to slush on streets and sidewalks.

In Ohio, Cleveland and Akron recorded their first snows of the season. But they didn't stay on the warm ground long.

However, the weatherman predicts more snow flurries for the northern part of the state tonight. The temperature, he said, would range from 20 along Lake Erie to 28 farther south in the state—all below freezing.

Wide areas in the northeast part of the nation received snowfalls which were light in section.

The lowest temperatures of the season were recorded throughout most of the northern and central Mississippi Valley and the Great Lakes region. Cold spots included Grantsburg, Wis., where the mercury dipped to 1 above zero, and Elkader, Iowa, where it was 6 above. Near zero readings were general in northern Wisconsin.

COLD AIR from Canada blowing across the warmer air of the Great Lakes resulted in the snow flurry activity in the Lakes Region and in the northern Appalachians.

Rain continued along the Gulf states and into west Texas and parts of western Oklahoma and Kansas. Snow fell along the northern edge of the rain belt in extreme southwestern Nebraska with Imperial reporting 1 inch on the ground.

Some locally heavy rainfall amounts occurred along the Gulf Coast with Pensacola, Fla., reporting nearly 2 inches during the night.

Rain also fell in Washington and Oregon and in parts of southern California. Clear skies extended from the Northern Rockies through the Northern Plains and the upper Mississippi Valley.

One of the lowest readings early today was 6 above at Grantsburg, Wis.

U.S. Agents Grab Dope Peddler

CLEVELAND (AP)—Federal narcotics agents, after an all-night vigil in Union Terminal, arrested a 31-year-old Chicago man today and said they would charge him with carrying $16,000 worth of heroin.

The man gave his name as Jesse Pierce and said he owned two restaurants in Chicago. He was quoted as saying he brought the 10 ounces of heroin here because "I needed some fast money to pay off debts."

Imported Police Chief To Be Fired

YOUNGSTOWN (AP)—Police Chief Edward J. Allen, brought here six years ago from Erie, Pa. by Mayor Charles P. Henderson to smash the rackets, is leaving with the defeated Republican mayor.

Mayor-elect Frank X. Kryzan, a 39-year-old attorney who edged Henderson by 1,496 votes out of more than 62,000 in the mayoral contest Tuesday, said he would pick a new chief from the department ranks. Kryzan is a Democrat.

"If we accepted those conditions, that would undermine our security and make it impossible for Germany to regain her unity in freedom," he told the House.

Hospital Drive Alert Sounded

Final arrangements were being made Thursday for the all-out stretch of a campaign to furnish a new wing being built at Berger hospital. Funds from the drive, directed by the General Guild, also will be used to replace worn or outdated equipment in the present structure.

A levy proposed last year provided only for the new construction work. A list of advance donations toward the furnishings already has been announced.

Full weight of the campaign will be turned on next week, when organized solicitors will seek contributions throughout the county. Berger hospital is managed as a city-county institution.

General Guild leaders in charge of the campaign have asked the public to be alert for launching of the drive's "big push" next week-end. While efforts will be concentrated on next week, they emphasized, the campaign program will extend for an indefinite period.

Farmwife Says Mate Killed Lancaster Lad

LANCASTER (AP)—Farmwife Elizabeth Rhoadbeck, 27, on trial for the Aug. 7 death of her son, Byron, 5, today from the witness stand accused her husband of the boy's murder.

"He killed my son and forced me to take the blame for it," she told the court.

She appeared calm and faced the jury during most of her hour and 15 minutes of testimony.

Her husband, Marion, 32, was recalled to the stand immediately after his wife finished testifying.

The mother of four other children said her husband "had it in" for Byron because the boy was "not his child."

She said her husband beat the boy the night of Aug. 6 and again the following morning when the boy spat at Rhoadbeck during breakfast.

Mrs. Rhoadbeck said she mopped up the blood from the night's beating but didn't take time to clean up all the blood after the breakfast dispute.

She told the court Rhoadbeck ordered her to tell the cow trampling story. Earlier, she had claimed the boy was trampled by a heifer.

Air Force, Army Openings Listed

Sgt. Edward Gross of the Circleville Air Force and Army recruiting station Thursday announced he has openings in both branches of service for local young men who can qualify.

Gross said he will be able to sign up eight men in each branch this month, including several openings in the Air Force cadet training program for high school grads.

Minimum terms of service for the branches are: air cadet, two years; Air Force, four years; and Army, three years.

The Circleville recruiting station in the VFW home on N. Court St. is open from 9 a. m. until 4 p. m. on Thursdays. Sgt. Gross is stationed in Chillicothe on Mondays, Wednesdays and Fridays.

'Preacher-Bear' Composer Dies

COLUMBUS (AP)—Art Longbrake, 72, author of "The Preacher and the Bear" and a number of other hit songs from the early 1900s, died in a hospital here yesterday.

He was a native of Mechanicsburg and former manager of Springfield's Bandbox Theater.

"The Preacher and the Bear" was introduced as the result of a visit to a Columbus cabaret. It was an immediate hit, was used widely in vaudeville and was recently revived by band leader Phil Harris.

Airlift Carries Gifts To Korea

TOKYO (AP)—A ton of Christmas gifts for the orphans of Pusan was flown to Korea today on a U. S. Air Force 374th Troop Carrier Wing C124 Globemaster, along with a regular shipment of military cargo.

The gifts, from Alabama citizens, had been airlifted from Alabama across the Pacific by Military Air Transport Service.

Commissioner Chieftain Says TB Clinic Plan Will Get 'Try'

Bill Goode, chairman of the Pickaway County board of commissioners, announced Thursday that plans to establish a clinic for tuberculosis victims here will be given a "try."

It was a follow-through on tentative arrangements made prior to Tuesday's balloting, when county voters approved a three-tenths mill levy over a five-year period to pay for the treatment of TB patients in hospitals. The county paid about $20,000 for this purpose in 1952 and expects to pay about $3,000 more than that amount this year.

A substantial portion of these funds will be, in effect, released for other expenditures by approval of the countywide levy. Pickaway County Tuberculosis and Health Association, which supported the levy, is known to favor the clinic proposal.

Goode said:

"WE'LL GO ahead and give the

TB clinic idea a try—for maybe six months or so—to see how it works. Somebody along the line, however, has got the wrong idea about how we're going to use the money we're been spending on the hospital patients.

"A portion of that money will be available for a try at the clinic plan, but certainly all of it won't be available for such use. There are many other important county needs to consider."

It was estimated by County Auditor Fred Tipton that the new levy will bring in a little more than $23,000 annually on the present countywide valuation.

Middle East Gets Warning From Yanks

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—The United States has warned Israel and neighboring Arab states that America cannot bear indefinitely the financial burdens imposed by their failure to agree on a settlement of the Palestine refugee question.

The warning was voiced yesterday by U. S. Delegate James P. Richards, a Democratic congressman from South Carolina, in speaking to the 60-nation special political committee.

Richards urged Israel and the Arab nations bordering on the Jordan River to join in the irrigation and hydroelectric development of the river and help the 800,000 refugees driven from Israeli soil by the Palestine War.

He called on Israel to start thinking about compensating the refugees for their land or allowing them to return, asserting it would be in the best interests of both sides if something were done as soon as possible.

The refugees are now being supplied with necessities through a $200 million U. N. fund, designed to keep them going until mid-1955. The bulk of the money was contributed by the U. S.

Richards said the United States gave full backing to a Jordan River development plan, drawn up by the Tennessee Valley Authority. The $121 million project would water land for the refugees and supply power for industries in Israel, Jordan and Syria.

2 Men Elected To Cincy Council

CINCINNATI (AP)—Mayor Carl W. Rich, Republican, and Theodore Berry, an incumbent Charter party member, were the first two candidates for Cincinnati's nine-man city council to be elected early today.

The quota of first place votes necessary for election under the proportional representation system of voting was fixed unofficially at 14,316.

An unofficial tabulation gave Mayor Rich 25,011 first choice votes and Berry 14,893.

Surviving her are five grandchildren, Wayne Stonerock of Circleville, Grace Bond of Lockbourne, Gurtie Wagner of Circleville Route 1 and Vista Redman of E. Mill St.; a brother, Lewis Carter, off 221 E. High St.; 21 grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.

Funeral arrangements are to be completed by Defenbaugh Funeral Home.

MISS CORA BAILEY

Miss Cora E. Bailey, 86, of Pickaway Township, a retired school teacher, died at 4 p. m. Wednesday in University hospital, Columbus, following surgery. She was admitted in the hospital last Friday.

Miss Bailey was born Dec. 17, 1866, in Clark County, daughter of William and Mary Baker Bailey.

Surviving her is a brother, James E. Bailey, and a sister, Mrs. Gertrude Andrich, both of Circleville Route 1; two nieces and three nephews. She was a member of Athens Methodist church.

Funeral services will be held at 10 a. m. Saturday in Defenbaugh Funeral Home with the Rev. Fred Kether officiating. Burial will be in Georgesville cemetery, Franklin County.

Friends may call in the funeral home after 10 a. m. Friday.

GEORGE STEELY

George Steely, 82, of 452 E. Main St., died in his sleep in his home early Thursday morning.

Mr. Steely is survived by his widow; a son, Marvin Steely; a grandson, George H. Steely; and a brother, John Steely.

He was a member of Circleville Presbyterian church.

Funeral services will be held in the residence at 2:30 p. m. Saturday with the Rev. Donald Mitchell officiating. Burial will be in Forest cemetery.

Friends may call in the residence at any time before the funeral hour; the body will be at the residence after 2:30 p. m. Friday.

Approval Of Fire Truck Levy Puts Squeeze On Old Pumper

Action taken by the voters of two townships Tuesday has focused restless attention on the "fire truck without a station"—the pumper owned by the Rural Township Fire Association.

Voters in the two townships—Circleville and Washington—approved one-mill tax levies for the purchase of a new fire truck. The truck, to be owned jointly by the townships, will be turned over to the city fire station here as part of a firefighting partnership between the city and the two rural areas.

Meanwhile, the eight townships represented by the Association have been expected to vote on whether the truck already owned, and now stored in Jackson Township, will be sold. It has been kept out of action since last May when the Association feuded with the city over cost of the rural runs.

Milton Manson, chairman of Circleville Township board of trustees, said further delays will not be tolerated in the proposed sale of the fire truck in Jackson Township. He said:

"IF SOMETHING definite isn't done on it soon, we're going to take court action to force the sale. We heard Salt Creek Township was getting ready to do the same thing, but if they don't do it we certainly will."

One possible link between sale of the old truck and purchase of the new one would be that a portion of the money from the sale could be used by Circleville and Washington Townships as part of their own transaction.

Also, Manson has been one of the Association leaders who claim action on the old truck should have been taken long ago.

Husband-Killer Gets Insurance

LOS ANGELES (AP)—A woman convicted of fatally shooting her husband has been awarded half the proceeds of his life insurance policies, exceeding $25,000.

Superior Judge Ernest A. Tolin made the award yesterday. He held that because the policies existed before Dr. Telford Moore's death, they must be considered community property.

The other half will go to the couple's son, Telford I. Moore Jr., and to a daughter of Mrs. Patricia Moore by a previous marriage, Antie Jane Thomas.

Mrs. Moore pleaded self defense, was convicted of manslaughter and sentenced to one to 10 years in prison. She has appealed and is at liberty under $10,000 bail.

New Car Dealer Ruling Promised

CLEVELAND (AP)—Ohio's registrar of motor vehicles, R. E. Foley of Columbus, has promised his critics a set of regulations covering car dealers will be up for a public hearing next month. He said it should help curb sharp practices by auto traders.

Foley said the proposed regulations would be filed with the secretary of state today. He showed copies yesterday to the president of the Better Business Bureau here, Marshall A. Mott, who said dealers who lost their licenses turn up shortly with new ones. The Better Business Bureau chief said he was unable to see how a man "can be a thief on March 31 and become an honest man on April 1." The licensing year starts April 1.

Fiber Industry Suffers From Growing Pains

Man-Made Fabrics Bring Manufacturers Several Headaches

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The man-made fiber industry may be suffering a little from the pains of growing so fast. It also feels the sting of jibes from producers of natural fibers. So today it seeks two things: It wants a few users and blenders of fibers to cease and desist from misusing, or under-using, synthetic fibers and advertising the resulting fabrics as the miraculous answer to all the consumers' prayers. And it seeks a way to educate consumers and store clerks as to the properties of various fibers and blends and as to what to expect from and how to treat them. There is talk in the industry today of forming an "institute of man-made fibers and fabrics" to work toward these ends, along with existing groups striving mightily at the job. The problem, as set forth by a spokesman for the Associated Men's Wear Retailers of New York: A portion of the buying public has been upset by "exaggerated claims and too-soon use" of some of the newer fibers. The reply by manufacturers of the new synthetics: Some fabric firms have approached the problem of blending fibers on a haphazard basis. The fiber makers contend a few ignorant or penny-pinching garment makers have used an insignificant amount of a miracle fiber in a blend and then claimed their fabric had all of its miraculous properties, or have used the wrong fibers in the first place. Miss Irene L. Blunt, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Textiles Inc., says the man-made fiber industry must redouble its efforts to persuade garment makers not to do this. But she lays even more stress on getting stores to train their sales help. Many clerks, she says, through ignorance or indifference, pass along to customers garments, honestly made, but carelessly retailed as possessing "miracle" properties. Garments should be labelled as to content, Miss Blunt says, and clerks should be taught to tell customers just what is to be expected from each fiber blend, and also just how they should be cleaned and pressed, or washed and ironed. And the consumer must be taught to ask before buying blindly. Dry cleaners and laundries are learning how to handle the new fabrics, Miss Blunt says. And manufacturers are constantly experimenting to develop new finishes, improve washability and other qualities, and perfect new and better performing blends aimed at specific wear needs. "Miracle fibers do not necessarily make miracle consumer products and no single fiber is ideal for all uses," Henry L. Dalton, an American Viscose Corp. vice president, points out. The problem is to find the fiber or blend of fibers that is suitable for a particular end product. This the industry is now tackling increasingly. Only one member of Tulane's football squad hails from above the Mason-Dixon line. He is Bill Spolten, tackle, from College Point, N. Y.

Fiber Industry Suffers From Growing Pains

Man-Made Fabrics Bring Manufacturers Several Headaches

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—The man-made fiber industry may be suffering a little from the pains of growing so fast. It also feels the sting of jibes from producers of natural fibers. So today it seeks two things: It wants a few users and blenders of fibers to cease and desist from misusing, or under-using, synthetic fibers and advertising the resulting fabrics as the miraculous answer to all the consumers' prayers. And it seeks a way to educate consumers and store clerks as to the properties of various fibers and blends and as to what to expect from and how to treat them. There is talk in the industry today of forming an "institute of man-made fibers and fabrics" to work toward these ends, along with existing groups striving mightily at the job. The problem, as set forth by a spokesman for the Associated Men's Wear Retailers of New York: A portion of the buying public has been upset by "exaggerated claims and too-often use" of some of the newer fibers. The reply by manufacturers of the new synthetics: Some fabric firms have approached the problem of blending fibers on a haphazard basis. The fiber makers contend a few ignorant or penny-pinching garment makers have used an insignificant amount of a miracle fiber in a blend and then claimed their fabric had all of its miraculous properties, or have used the wrong fibers in the first place. Miss Irene L. Blunt, secretary-treasurer of the National Federation of Textiles Inc., says the man-made fiber industry must redouble its efforts to persuade garment makers not to do this. But she lays even more stress on getting stores to train their sales help. Many clerks, she says, through ignorance or indifference, pass along to customers garments, honestly made, but carelessly retailed as possessing "miracle" properties. Garments should be labelled as to content, Miss Blunt says, and clerks should be taught to tell customers just what is to be expected from each fiber blend, and also just how they should be cleaned and pressed, or washed and ironed. And the consumer must be taught to ask before buying blindly. Dry cleaners and laundries are learning how to handle the new fabrics, Miss Blunt says. And manufacturers are constantly experimenting to develop new finishes, improve washability and other qualities, and perfect new and better performing blends aimed at specific wear needs. "Miracle fibers do not necessarily make miracle consumer products and no single fiber is ideal for all uses," Henry L. Dalton, an American Viscose Corp. vice president, points out. The problem is to find the fiber or blend of fibers that is suitable for a particular end product. This industry is now tackling increasingly. Only one member of Tulane's football squad hails from above the Mason-Dixon line. He is Bill Spollen, tackle, from College Point, N. Y.

Live Aerial Bomb Found In Alley BALTIMORE (AP)—Eight-year-old Leroy Coombs found a live 20-pound aerial bomb "rolling down the alley" on his way home to dinner Tuesday night. A bomb disposal expert said it "definitely contains explosive" and suggested it was either a British or Japanese missile. It was the second live bomb found in the southern section of the city in less than a year.

International Stock Show To Feature Farm Youngsters

CHICAGO — Farm boys and girls from across the nation will again play a major role in the 54th annual International Live Stock Exposition, according to officials of this world-famed agricultural event.

Two important events are scheduled for Friday, Nov. 27, as special features. A National 4-H Livestock Judging Contest will be held in which state-champion teams will compete for the year's top titles in judging classes of beef cattle, horses, sheep and swine.

The management also has announced a Friday evening Horse Show for the first time in the exposition's history. The show is planned to shorten the judging programs of the 13 horse shows that will follow during the 8-day run of the exposition.

The International Junior Livestock Feeding Contest will occupy the arena all day Saturday, Nov. 28. In this event scores of 4-H and F.F.A. boys and girls from many states will exhibit steers, lambs and hogs of their own raising—most of them champion winners at fairs held earlier in the year.

Ten times during the last 25 years youngsters have shown the International grand champion steer, considered the star animal of the livestock show year.

Judging contests in which more than 30 agricultural colleges will be represented by student contestants is also an opening day feature. It will be the 54th renewal of this event in which many of the nation's leading stockmen obtained their early training and experience as participants in this contest.

Many more activities for boys and girls of the nation's farms will bring them into the limelight during International week. The 32nd annual National 4-H Club Congress will be held in conjunction with the Exposition. It will bring delegates from all the states, Canada and several foreign countries. They will parade in an eye-filling arena-packed spectacle at the Wednesday night Horse Show, Dec. 2.

The International's renowned competitions feature classes for 26 breeds of beef cattle, horses, sheep, and swine in addition to the nation's finest riding and harness horses and ponies which will perform at the 14 horse show performances.

Steelworker Gets Lush Political Job

JOHNSTOWN, Pa. (U.P.) — Joseph Tomaskovich, an $85-a-week steelworker, got himself a new job today—tax collector of nearby Franklin Borough at about $50,000 a year.

Tomaskovich's regular job is at the Bethlehem Steel Co. plant. But as tax collector he'll take down a 2½ per cent commission on approximately $400,000-a-year taxes paid by the steel plant and an additional $130,000 revenue by other property owners.

Tax collecting from the nation's second largest steel company is no problem nor time-consuming endeavor. Actually it takes only about an hour's work annually. And Tomaskovich's got the job for the next four years.

10th Air Force Band Disbanded

MT. CLEMENS, Mich. (U.P.) — So far as Selfridge Air Force Base is concerned, the Defense Department has tumbled a very sour note on its economy callopie.

The 10th Air Force Band, founded six years ago, has been ordered disbanded Nov. 18 to save money.

Voters Ignore Technicalities

SPRINGFIELD, Ohio (U.P.) — The voters of the Village of Clifton—population 220—don't go in much for technicalities.

Tuesday they sent four men into a dead heat for a village office that doesn't exist—the board of public affairs.

Then they elected the same man mayor and councilman. If he decides to be mayor it means a straw-drawing contest between two men who finished in a tie behind him in the Council voting.

What's more, the voters elected a military man to the Council. There is strong suspicion that a soldier on active duty may not hold public office in the village. All votes were write-ins.

Fire Kills Baby

SPRINGFIELD (U.P.) — Ralph E. Scott, 2½ months, died yesterday in a fire at the Clifton home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Geno Scott.

Hillsboro Taps Dem

HILLSBORO (U.P.) — Karl Doebelle, Democrat, defeated incumbent E. C. Wisecup, Republican, in the city election here Tuesday.

Fall Kills Painter

CAMBRIDGE (U.P.) — Walter Brown, 57, fell from a ladder yesterday while painting the roof of his Seneca house and was killed.

It's important to baby's health and happiness to keep all his things "sanitary sweet." Use double-action Roman Cleanser Bleach for baby's clothing, bedding. It disinfects and deodorizes, whitens and removes stains—all in one easy operation—without extra work.

Roman Cleanser is safe, efficient for disinfecting baby's toys, undies, bibs, diapers, furniture, dishes. See disinfecting directions on the label.

Then they elected the same man mayor and councilman. If he decides to be mayor it means a straw-drawing contest between two men who finished in a tie behind him in the Council voting.

What's more, the voters elected a military man to the Council. There is strong suspicion that a soldier on active duty may not hold public office in the village. All votes were write-ins.

WASHINGTON (AP)—When President Eisenhower endorsed all Republican candidates in Tuesday's elections, some political experts said the results would show how the voters feel about his administration.

The results, mostly victories for the Democrats, probably showed no such thing although Democrats crowded and some Republicans moaned. The real test for the administration will come in the 1954 elections for control of Congress.

To suggest Eisenhower was the issue in Tuesday's elections is to ignore three main points: the kind of endorsement he gave his party's candidates; voters' independent judgment, and local political issues, including scandals.

Eisenhower backed his party's candidates only in general. He did not directly endorse, by name or record, a single Republican candidate.

A voter could not be expected to close his eyes to the issues and the character and promises of the candidates and vote Republican simply because Eisenhower said he wanted Republicans elected. There were plenty of local issues.

The election results, which certainly jolted the Republicans, may benefit the country as a whole.

Fear of the same treatment in next year's congressional elections may spur the Republicans into more activity in Congress and more leadership in the administration.

Eisenhower, at his news conference yesterday, made it clear he expects his administration to be judged more by what it does next year than by what it produced this year. He repeated what he has said before:

He hopes that the record of accomplishments by his administration in 1954 will bring the Republicans victory at the polls next November and continue them in control of Congress.

The Democratic victory in Virginia's race for governor not only was expected—it would have been a sensation if the result had been otherwise. The Democratic organization in Virginia, headed by Sen. Harry F. Byrd, is probably the best entrenched in the nation.

Democrat Robert F. Wagner Jr. won the New York City mayor's job in a landslide after a campaign jammed with conflicts, issues, promises.

New York City traditionally has been Democratic. Besides being the son of a famous father—the late senator for whom he is named—Wagner had formidable backing: Tammany Hall; New York Democrats like Sen. Herbert Lehman, Averell Harriman and Rep. Franklin D. Roosevelt Jr. and national-scene Democrats like former President Truman and Adlai Stevenson, the party's 1952 presidential nominee.

In addition, Wagner was helped by a scandal in the state Republican administration over convicted racketeer Joey Fay.

Fay also figured in the New Jersey gubernatorial election, in which Democrat Robert B. Meyner beat Republican Paul L. Troast. This race, dull at the start, picked up steam when it was learned Troast had asked New York's Gov. Thomas E. Dewey for clemency for Fay. But the Republicans retained control of the New Jersey Legislature.

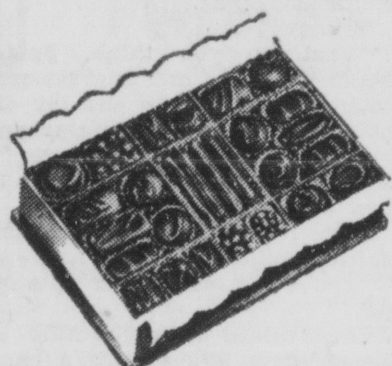

The real shock for the Republicans came in New Jersey's 6th congressional district race, won by Democrat Harrison A. Williams Jr. He won by 2,000 votes in a district which went Republican by 54,000 votes in 1952. The Democrats themselves thought so poorly of Williams' chances that the House Campaign Committee didn't send in any money to help him.

Only a month ago the Republicans suffered a similar shock in Wisconsin's 9th congressional district, which had never gone Democratic before. The Democrat who won made promises while the Republican candidate generally stood on Eisenhower's record.

In that farm belt district Eisenhower may have been an issue, truly, for the election gave farmers a chance to show any dissatisfaction with Eisenhower's farm policy.

FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT
FEDERAL CIVIL SERVICE policy underwent two important modifications in recent weeks which should increase the efficiency and effectiveness of governmental bureaucracy.

The present administration's first incredulous discovery was that there were few middle-echelon policy-making jobs which it could staff with its own adherents. Later, as economy layoffs were ordered, it was learned that civil service regulations—most of them put into effect in recent years—often work out in practice to protect the less qualified personnel.

The remedial measures at once enhance the merit feature of civil service while at the same time recognizing that policy-making jobs must be responsive to the party in power. They are the establishment of a "Schedule C" in the civil service roster listing positions of a confidential and policy-making character, and the requirement that veterans must earn a passing grade on civil service tests before receiving 10 preference points.

Federal executives electing to go on "Schedule C" do so with their eyes wide open. Doing so, they know, means hitching their wagon to a specific political star. Abolished, meanwhile, is the fiction that "middle" bureaucrats are anonymous altruists, or that veterans are entitled to sinecures.

Both steps are in the direction of better government. They will stand out regardless of the party in power.

PARENTAL DELINQUENCY

JUVENILE DELINQUENCY in the U.S. has increased at so alarming a rate that for the first time in the nation's history a congressional investigation has been ordered to look into the problem.

A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary committee, headed by Senator Hendrickson of New Jersey, will tour the country, checking into the whole catalog of juvenile crime. Like the Kefauver crime committee in whose footsteps it follows the Hendrickson group intends to focus attention to a situation at the local level in which corrective action should be taken.

The U. S. Children's Bureau estimates that one million children in the country are arrested each year and that 350,000 are haled before juvenile courts as delinquents. FBI Director Hoover notes that increasing juvenile crime is not only shocking in itself but heralds a nationwide crime wave greater than anything ever before known.

An investigation of juvenile delinquency, of course, neither begins nor ends with youthful offenders. All society is implicated,

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I came across a questionnaire given to parents in Rahway, New Jersey, for them to fill out so that the school might more intelligently plan its course of study. Myself, I generally throw such questionnaires away because the school authorities cannot need to know how often I bathe before they can decide whether to teach my child algebra or Latin or maybe how to play the electric guitar.

They want to know whether the family owns a radio or television or does the child have a room to itself for study.

They do not ask whether the child tries to accumulate information while the radio blares forth the many parodies on "Drag-net," or while "The Shadow" scares the daylight out of adults. The children seem never to be frightened by anything over the radio.

I have never been able to understand how the children can remember what they study to the accompaniment of the radio, but it has been explained to me by my infants that times have changed and that I am very old. That is why I cannot read Suetonius while listening to the "Gang Busters."

So the questionnaire goes on to ask the parent what language he speaks besides English, which may be important if the school really wants to teach English as a beautiful language, capable of precise expression.

In that respect, times have, indeed, changed. My own experience is that I came from a multi-lingual home in which English was a second language, rarely spoken by the adults, but somehow most of us managed to get good marks in English while not altogether forgetting other tongues.

Then we go down to this question: "Do you study to improve your present income?" Maybe this is designed to discover whether the child has a nervous parent.

Perhaps one day a Ph.D. will do a research on which months of the year produce the most nervous parents. Probably March will show up as the worst month and March 15 as the very worst day of the very worst month.

I know that I get the jitters along the beginning of March. It is during March that it is dangerous for my children to ask me whether it is true that Toscanini likes jazz and whether Stalin was shorter than Tom Dewey.

Perhaps another reason for this question is to determine whether the parent is one of those old-fashioned Americans who suffers from the ancient ambition of trying to improve his lot by hard work. Such parents are behind the times. The modern man takes seniority as a guiding rule and hopes that if anything goes wrong, the Government will come to his rescue with a subsidy.

Also, there are pensions. Why push out of line and embarrass the neighbors?

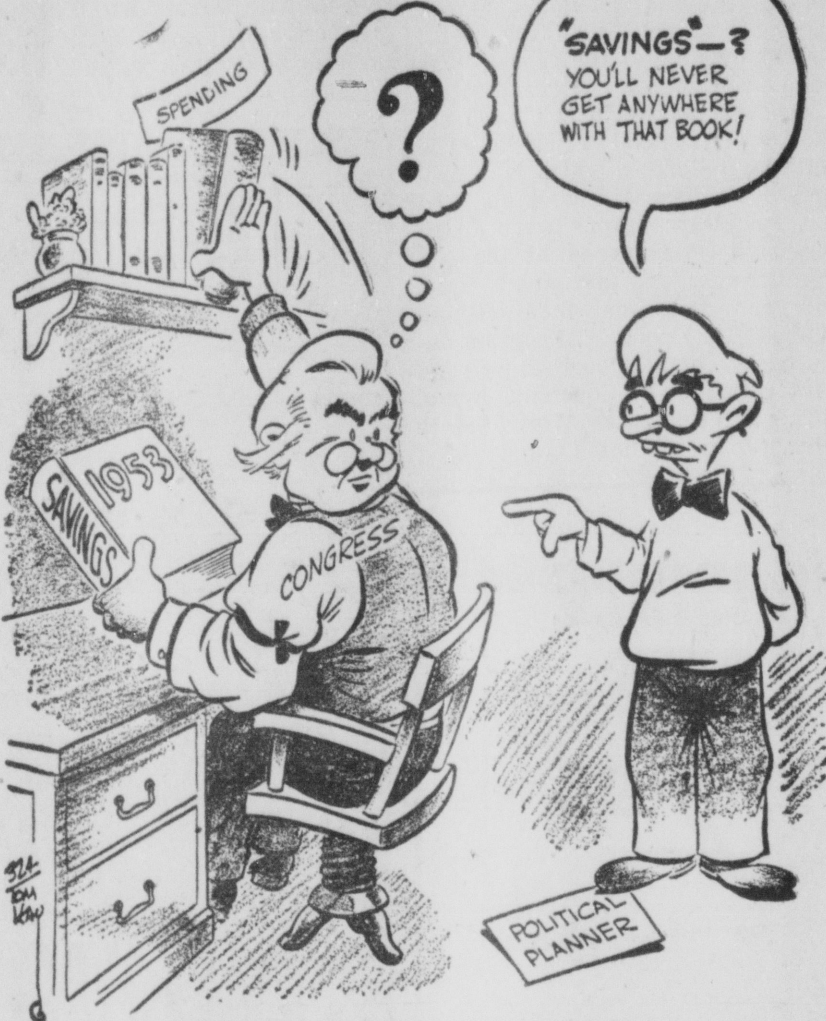

One of the most astonishing questions asked of these Rahway parents is "How many bathrooms in your home?" They do not ask whether they are used often.

Nor do they ask whether the bath towels match the tiles or is there a two-tone effect.

ed, but no institution so seriously as the home. The Hendrickson committee will be of service if it constructively probes all contributory shortcomings and points to the way grownups can improve a situation that is mainly of their own making.

Motorist's Sideswipe Fracture

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.
"SIDESWIPE" fractures are becoming more and more common as automobiles become a necessity rather than a luxury. We are seeing more and more fractures of the elbow, particularly the left elbow, due to the sideswiping of cars while the driver has his elbow protruding from the window. Fractures of this type are also seen in children who put their elbow out of buses or other vehicle windows.

These wounds are, in most instances, very severe and, in many cases, amputation of the arm may be forced by the injury. Often, there is a great amount of shock accompanying the fracture and this must be treated immediately. This is done by the physician giving plasma or blood, in order to build up the blood pressure and bring back the fluids that have left the blood vessels.

Importance of Cleansing
The wound is usually very dirty and the fracture is most often of an open type, with the bone protruding from the torn flesh. The utmost care is needed in cleansing the wound, as there is danger of developing lockjaw or tetanus. For this reason, tetanus antitoxin is given.

Many of these fractures must be repaired by the physician in the operating room through surgery, in order to effect an adequate cure. Many months are usually spent in casts or in bed with different types of immobilization carried out to keep the slow-healing fracture at rest. Since a joint is involved, it is very rarely that completely normal function is returned to the arm. Drivers and passengers must be urged not to rest their arms on the ledges of car windows.

QUESTION AND ANSWER
S. P.: I have a cracking on the bottom of my feet constantly. What would you advise?
Answer: This may be due to extremely dry skin or ringworm of the feet. The use of lanolin or some other lubricant applied over this part of the skin will be of great help.

Red Heads Don't Cry

by ROY L. FOLEY

CHAPTER TWENTY SIX
LINDA was watching the two of them now, Spike sitting in the same chair in which he had sat the night before, radiating the hard danger of a steel trap, Sam on the other side of the glass-laden table, looking soft, furtive and pale.

He was telling Spike the same old story that he had told Linda that day in the lounge of the Cudahy Tower. Only his manner was quite different than it had been that morning. There was no slapping Spike across the knees with gloves as he had slapped Linda across the knees that morning.

Even those who worked with Spike and thought they were closest to him didn't try anything like that. It just didn't go.

"It's this way," Sam was saying. "I just sort of drifted into this town. Got myself a nice little racket with the slot machines, like you had in New Orleans, only just when it was going good the cops and the whole town started getting tough. Funny town, this. A guy can't get anywhere with that stuff. So I say myself, Sam, it's? So the next thing I knew I was livin' respectable, and the first thing I knew I got myself married, and—"

"Got yourself married, eh? You got yourself married once before, and you forgot to get yourself unmarried too. I saw Belle just last week."

"The hell you say."

"Yep, and she was lookin' kind of healthy too. That was a hell of a trick you pulled on Belle, running out on her that way. Belle wouldn't have done it to you."

"Where is she?"

"Chicago, Detroit, lots of places. Belle's alright, only you'd better keep out of her tracks."

"You wouldn't squeal on me to Belle, Spike?" Sam turned a shade whiter.

"Forget it. Go on."

"Well, I was livin' respectable. I got a swell little wife this time, Spike. A real swell kid. Innocent and sweet like. Sharp enough, only not our kind of sharp. Well, as I was saying, I was just going along nice when something came over me, and I lifted some confidential information that I happened to see, from a lawyer's office."

Sam poured himself another drink.

"Go on."

"Well, it looked like easy money, so I lifted some stuff that my wife's sister was typing. She was a stenographer for a big law firm, see, and there's a big lawsuit going on here, see, and I take the paper, see, because I knew it was confidential information, and I thought the right people would pay for it, see, and then I muffed it, see."

"Sure, you muffed it. You always muffed everything when I wasn't on your tail every minute."

Linda interrupted.

"Let me tell it, Sam."

She told Spike the whole story of the suit against the Stanley Construction company, of Phil Stanley and Nancy, and Sam's weak effort to capitalize on some confidential information that he happened to stumble on. She said that Sam still had the dope on old J. G. Stanley and his company, and if she wasn't mistaken it was still good for a chunk of money. She said that Sam should have gone straight to J. G. for a shakedown instead of even thinking about shaking down a bunch of smart lawyers.

Spike listened and kept rubbing his jaw.

"I get it. Old man Stanley is a crook, just like us, only he's one of those big, respectable pillars of the town and he gets away with it. He has a son. The son is a nice young fellow with a million. Cassie—I mean Linda—is after a piece of the million and was just about to push over the young millionaire when he ups and meets a redhead."

"The young millionaire all of a sudden goes cool. Then along comes Sam and Linda finds Sam has gone matrimonial again and is married to the redhead's sister."

Linda's green eyes were shining with admiration for Spike's clear appraisal of the whole situation.

"How does it stack up, Spike?"

"Not bad."

"The cops in this town have a reputation, Spike."

"I know."

"What do you think, Spike, should you and I and Sam concentrate on the old man and lay off the son? I've been playing around this town for a year. I really haven't gotten very far. I'd like to blow out of here pretty soon."

Spike regarded Linda with a half amused smile.

"You're not losing your guts old girl?"

They talked to each other as though Sam Sykes were a chair or a table. They didn't even seem to notice that Sam was pacing around the room, chewing his lips and running long fingers through his sleek hair.

Spike was rubbing his jaws faster and faster. The scrape of his hand against his beard was like a rasp on Sam's nerves. He stopped pacing.

"Say, what is this! I tell you I'm through with this stuff, that I've laid off, see. I've got a wife, see. If something would happen she might get pulled in on this, see. I'm through, see."

Spike stopped rubbing his jaws. He jumped to his feet and grabbed Sam by the lapels of his coat. He shook him until Sam's sleek black hair hung in strings over his eyes.

"You shut up. You'll do as I tell you. Don't see me. See?"

Linda came between them.

"Come on, boys, there's no use getting excited about it. We'll never get anywhere that way."

Spike and Sam sat down. Spike took a gulp of his drink and then pointed a rigid finger toward Sam.

"You get that dope on old man Stanley here by nine o'clock tomorrow."

"Try to get out of town and I'll hound you to hell and back. Belle would be mighty interested in meeting your new wife. See?"

Sam's poor effort for release from Spike Adams' power dissolved like snow on a hot stove.

"All right, Spike. I'm on. I'm gettin' sick of this burg myself. I'm with you a hundred per cent. Funny how the three of us are together again after two years. What's on your mind?"

Spike asked what Sam thought old J. G. would be willing to lay out for hush money. Sam said he didn't know, maybe $10,000, maybe $50,000.

"Of course YOU wouldn't know."

Spike's sarcasm was like a lash across Sam's face, still Sam didn't dare answer. It was the old whip that he had felt so many times before. Funny, he thought, the whip of Spike's tongue was like a slash of a knife and still it felt kind of nice. It made a fellow have guts. He hadn't felt that way in a couple of years. It made him feel as if he had somebody back of him.

He'd follow Spike. Spike always lined his pockets first, but Spike was a good guy in his funny way. Sam forgot Moira, his resolve to go straight, danger, everything. Once more he was one of Spike Adams' minions.

news behind the news

WASHINGTON — Even President Eisenhower's closest friends cannot decide whether he is as naive at political shenanigans as he makes himself out to be, or whether he is playing possum with them. There is strong evidence for both conclusions about the warrior in the White House.

There is still a third theory to explain several recent presidential gestures, which is that Ike is as apt a pupil in his new profession as he was at soldiering.

It is now recalled that, after a dismal start in his struggle for both the nomination and election last year, he showed phenomenal progress in his speeches, his tactics and broad strategy, and in his managing of men and issues. He handled the Nixon fund episode with Rooseveltian aplomb.

What now puzzles and amuses the so-called smart boys among the press and politicians is that, while Ike was piously disclaiming any intention of intervening on behalf of Republican candidates in last Tuesday's or next year's contests, he was electioneering with the White House doorstep as his platform and publicity office.

TURNABOUT—When the suspension of American financial aid to Israel over its harnessing of Jordan River water for its exclusive use provoked protests from the politicians, Ike backedtracked quickly. He was reminded that such a move would antagonize Jewish voters on the eve of the Nov. 3 elections, especially in the important mayoralty scrap in New York City.

But the man who announced that the White House and State Department were reconsidering their action in this international dispute involving such key territory as the Middle East was not Israel's ambassador to the United States, a representative of the Zionist organization or such a good presidential friend and Jewish spokesman as Bernard Baruch. Ordinarily, these individuals would be the presidential plenipotentiaries.

Instead, the reassuring news was given out by Harold Riegelman, the now-defeated Republican candidate for the New York mayoralty, after an emergency visit to the State Department. Incidentally, the suspension was lifted in spite of the fact that Israel had not complied fully with United Nations or United States requirements.

TACTICS — Similar political procedure was followed with respect to federal disaster aid to the drought-stricken farmers of next-door Virginia. After considerable delay in meeting this problem, and when it appeared that the Old Dominion State would be omitted from the relief program, another successful emissary on behalf of the Virginia voters showed up at Washington.

But it was not President Eisenhower's good friend, Sen. Harry F. Byrd, who indirectly supported Ike against Truman last year. Nor was it Gov. John S. Battle, although it is customary for the chief executive of a state to handle these matters. And Battle is not disliked at the White House. Several Byrd-Battle men have been appointed to high posts at Washington in the State Department and Internal Revenue.

The individual who conferred with Eisenhower, and who announced from the White House doorstep that federal funds would be forthcoming immediately, was Ted Dalton, the now-defeated Republican nominee in Virginia's gubernatorial contest. And if anybody thinks that the Riegelman-Dalton visitations were nonpolitical, he is welcome to his unprofitable thoughts.

MOVES—Two other influential ballot-box elements, within two weeks before the Nov. 3 elections, were also reminded that the White House has their interests at heart. Curiously enough, they were organized labor and the colored voters.

James P. Mitchell, Secretary of Labor, announced that future contracts made by the District of Columbia would contain an anti-discrimination clause. Since the District is federal territory, and this provision has been included in all government contracts since 1941, it was hardly news. But it was given heavy headline space in Negro newspapers. It was also "leaked" that Mitchell was looking favorably on pro-labor changes in his consideration of Taft-Hartley revising way!

FOR GOOD GOVERNMENT

policy underwent two important modifications in recent weeks which should increase the efficiency and effectiveness of governmental bureaucracy.

The present administration's first incredulous discovery was that there were few middle-echelon policy-making jobs which it could staff with its own adherents. Later, as economy layoffs were ordered, it was learned that civil service regulations—most of them put into effect in recent years—often work out in practice to protect the less qualified personnel.

The remedial measures at once enhance the merit feature of civil service while at the same time recognizing that policy-making jobs must be responsive to the party in power. They are the establishment of a "Schedule C" in the civil service roster listing positions of a confidential and policy-making character, and the requirement that veterans must earn a passing grade on civil service tests before receiving 10 preference points.

Federal executives electing to go on "Schedule C" do so with their eyes wide open. Doing so, they know, means hitching their wagon to a specific political star. Abolished, meanwhile, is the fiction that "middle" bureaucrats are anonymous altruists, or that veterans are entitled to sinecures.

Both steps are in the direction of better government. They will stand out regardless of the party in power.

PARENTAL DELINQUENCY

in the U.S. has increased at so alarming a rate that for the first time in the nation's history a congressional investigation has been ordered to look into the problem.

A subcommittee of the Senate Judiciary committee, headed by Senator Hendrickson of New Jersey, will tour the country, checking into the whole catalog of juvenile crime. Like the Kefauver crime committee in whose footsteps it follows the Hendrickson group intends to focus attention to a situation at the local level in which corrective action should be taken.

The U. S. Children's Bureau estimates that one million children in the country are arrested each year and that 350,000 are haled before juvenile courts as delinquents. FBI Director Hoover notes that increasing juvenile crime is not only shocking in itself but heralds a nationwide crime wave greater than anything ever before known.

An investigation of juvenile delinquency, of course, neither begins nor ends with youthful offenders. All society is implicated,

George E. Sokolsky's

These Days

I came across a questionnaire given to parents in Rahway, New Jersey, for them to fill out so that the school might more intelligently plan its course of study. Myself, I generally throw such questionnaires away because the school authorities cannot need to know how often I bathe before they can decide whether to teach my child algebra or Latin or maybe how to play the electric guitar.

They want to know whether the family owns a radio or television or does the child have a room to itself for study.

They do not ask whether the child tries to accumulate information while the radio blares forth the many parodies on "Drag-net," or while "The Shadow" scares the daylight out of adults. The children seem never to be frightened by anything over the radio.

I have never been able to understand how the children can remember what they study to the accompaniment of the radio, but it has been explained to me by my infants that times have changed and that I am very old. That is why I cannot read Suetonius while listening to "Gang Busters."

So the questionnaire goes on to ask the parent what language he speaks besides English, which may be important if the school really wants to teach English as a beautiful language, capable of precise expression.

In that respect, times have, indeed, changed. My own experience is that I came from a multi-lingual home in which English was a second language, rarely spoken by the adults, but somehow most of us managed to get good marks in English while not altogether forgetting other tongues.

Then we go down to this question: "Do you study to improve your present income?" Maybe this is designed to discover whether the child has a nervous parent.

Perhaps one day a Ph.D. will do a research on which months of the year produce the most nervous parents. Probably March will show up as the worst month and March 15 as the very worst day of the very worst month.

I know that I get the jitters along the beginning of March. It is during March that it is dangerous for my children to ask me whether it is true that Toscanini likes jazz and whether Stalin was shorter than Tom Dewey.

Perhaps another reason for this question is to determine whether the parent is one of those old-fashioned Americans who suffers from the ancient ambition of trying to improve his lot by hard work. Such parents are behind the times. The modern man takes seniority as a guiding rule and hopes that if anything goes wrong, the Government will come to his rescue with a subsidy.

Also, there are pensions. Why push out of line and embarrass the neighbors?

One of the most astonishing questions asked of these Rahway parents is "How many bathrooms in your home?" They do not ask whether they are used often.

Nor do they ask whether the bath towels match the tiles or is there a two-tone effect.

Motorist's Sideswipe Fracture

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M.D.

"SIDESWIPE" fractures are becoming more and more common as automobiles become a necessity rather than a luxury.

We are seeing more and more fractures of the elbow, particularly the left elbow, due to the sideswiping of cars while the driver has his elbow protruding from the window. Fractures of this type are also seen in children who put their elbow out of buses or other vehicle windows.

Severe Wounds

These wounds are, in most instances, very severe and, in many cases, amputation of the arm may be forced by the injury.

Often, there is a great amount of shock accompanying the fracture and this must be treated immediately. This is done by the physician giving plasma or blood, in order to build up the blood pressure and bring back the fluids that have left the blood vessels.

Court Of Awards Is Held By Girl Scout Association

Mrs. Carle Snider Presents Program

Circleville and Pickaway County Girl Scouts held Fall Court of Awards Wednesday evening in Trinity Lutheran Parish house. Mrs. Carle Snider, program chairman of the Girl Scout Association, was in charge of the meeting.

Flag ceremony was presented by Troop 22, whose leaders are Mrs. Eleanor Dawson and Miss Alma Ehret.

Mrs. Snider welcomed the group, stressing the fact that while we are rightfully proud of our accomplishments, we must also think of our obligations since Scouts are to become the leaders of the future.

Presentation of awards for badge work accomplished by the troop members was directed by Mrs. Ned Hitchcock.

Troop 10, whose leaders are Mrs. Myron Schelb and Mrs. Theodore Culp, was invested as a Senior Scout Troop in a fly-up ceremony directed by the leaders.

A polka was presented by Troop 17, under leadership of Mrs. Robert Thomas and Mrs. Carl Johnson. Mrs. Foster "Sunny" Reinhart of Chillicothe led the girls in group singing. She stressed the importance of observing the little courtesies and the Girl Scout Laws, which are the distinguishing marks of Scouts in this world of hurry, hurry, hurry.

Meeting was closed with group singing of Taps, and the friendship circle.

Uncle Sam's '54 Tax Bite To Be Large

Good Business This Year Means Big Cut For Federal Coiffers

NEW YORK (AP) — Uncle Sam should do all right next year because American business is doing so well this year.

Tax payments, starting next March, on this year's corporate earnings should be considerably higher than the Treasury's take in 1953. With individual incomes totalling higher this year, too, the Treasury haul from this source should be higher.

In both cases the present high income tax rates apply. On next year's earnings and incomes there'll be some cut in rates and returns, which will show up in 1955 payments on 1954 incomes.

Earnings statements of corporations for the first nine months of 1953 show that as a whole they are putting aside 40 per cent more now to meet next March's federal income and excess profits tax bills than they did this time a year ago.

This is because corporate earnings before taxes, as reported so far, come to around 30 per cent more than in the same period last year. After taxes, the net income is running around 18 per cent higher than last year.

It was last year's lower than expected corporate tax payments—due in part to some costly 1952 strikes—which embarrassed the Treasury last June. The steel strike alone lopped about one billion dollars off the amount the steel companies had been expected to pay Uncle Sam on 1952 earnings.

When earnings drop, Uncle Sam loses even more than the companies, because he takes more than half of their earnings in taxes. Thanks to a 52 per cent corporate income tax plus the added bite of excess profit levies on many companies, the Treasury was taking around 55 per cent of corporate earnings in 1952.

With gross earnings higher this year, the excess profits tax is taking an even greater share. The total tax take is estimated to be around 60 per cent of total corporate gross earnings.

This will help the Treasury in March. But the trouble here is that almost 80 per cent of the Treasury's total revenue is in the form of corporate and individual income taxes. With rates due to be lowered on next year's income, any falling off in corporate earnings in 1954 because of a possible business dip, and any falling off in take-home pay of individuals would put an embarrassing crimp in Treasury revenues when payments are made in 1955.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Beef prices turned lower in many food stores this week. Eggs, chickens and pork also offered attractive bargains.

Lamb, which had long headed the list of bargain specials, moved higher in most cities.

Center cut pork chops were offered by one nationwide food chain at prices which ranged as much as 10 cents a pound under last week's levels. Chickens for frying and broiling were down two to five cents a pound; eggs down as much as six cents a dozen. Butter was a little higher.

Beef fanciers found sirloin steaks and beef rib roasts priced two to four cents lower than last week in many parts of the country. Pot roast, chuck and ground beef were among heavily promoted specials for the coming weekend.

On the produce counter, best buys of the week included apples, tokay grapes, radishes, spinach, cabbage, potatoes and onions. Grapefruit was the standout buy among the citrus fruits; California oranges were a little lower in price, Florida's a little higher.

The season's first tangerines from Florida arrived at big city markets this week and as usual they commanded high prices.

Fresh cranberries are plentiful and reasonably priced. There should be more than enough for Thanksgiving day feasting.

The lowly onion is featured by the Department of Agriculture as one of its "food headlines" this week. The current U.S. onion crop is one of the biggest on record—50 million sacks of 50 pounds each as compared to 39 million sacks last year.

Black pepper—expensive and practically impossible to come by at one time during World War II—is now a glut on the market. Pepper, which brought $1.40 a pound wholesale a month ago, can now be had for 99 cents. Bumper crops in India and Borneo account for the surplus.

ROK Envoy Says Reds Plan War

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The South Korean ambassador to the United States, here for a lecture today, says the Communists are violating the Korean truce and will launch "the most horrible of all wars."

Dr. You Chan Yang, in an interview last night, said the Reds are using the Korean truce to stockpile bombs and planes and settle their internal troubles.

When the time is ripe, he continued, "they will start the most horrible of all wars." He said the Reds had rebuilt 30 North Korean airfields and despite truce pledges are bringing in crated planes.

Shotgun Kills Lad

COLUMBUS (AP)—Police say Donald Renner, 14, accidentally shot and killed his 6-year-old playmate, Ronnie Sayre, yesterday when a shotgun discharged.

Newspapers Good But Can Be Improved

CHICAGO (AP)—Norman E. Isaacs, president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., says that "newspaper objectivity and responsibility have increased steadily, but we are not yet good enough."

Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville Times, made the statement in his report to the organization of editors of Associated Press newspapers here.

He recalled that since his election to the APME presidency a year ago he had traveled to various parts of the country and had "pleaded everywhere for a high ethical concept of journalism." He declared:

"Newspaper know-how, objectivity, fairness and responsibility have increased steadily through our time. All of us are better newspapermen today than were 10 years ago. "But we are not yet good enough."

Isaacs asserted that, for further improvement, newspapering must adopt a "professionalism of the spirit." He explained:

"We have to approach our calling with the devotion of the minister, the skill of the doctor, the thoroughness of the scientist."

"Put them all together. You will have a fine, understanding, objective and responsible public servant. "None of us can ask for any higher calling. Let us give our newspapers the love, the devoted attention and the high skill they need to flourish and grow."

"Let us all pull together to take newspapering forward."

Leader Named

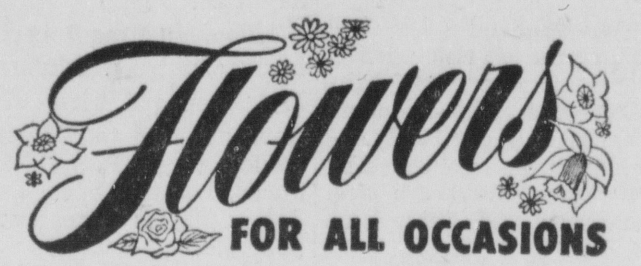

COLUMBUS (AP)—The new executive secretary of the Ohio League of Young Republican Clubs is Theodore M. Gray of Piqua.

Services Held

COLUMBUS (AP)—Funeral services for Judge Edward S. Matthias, dean of Ohio Supreme Court jurists, were held here today. Judge Matthias, 80, was killed Monday in a fall from an upstairs window of his Columbus home.

City Judge Dies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Funeral services will be held in suburban Lakewood tomorrow afternoon for Judge Alpheus A. Stephens, 66, who had served on the Lakewood Municipal Court bench since 1945.

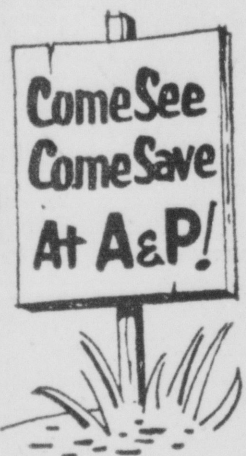

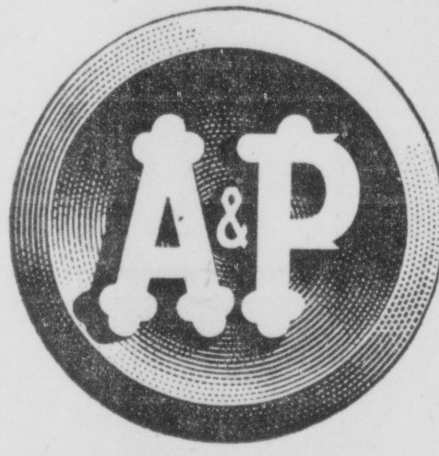

You can brighten the long days of convalescence with a well chosen gift of flowers that bring sunshine to a friend's bedside.

Uncle Sam's '54 Tax Bite To Be Large

Good Business This Year Means Big Cut For Federal Coffers

NEW YORK (AP)—Uncle Sam should do all right next year because American business is doing so well this year.

Tax payments, starting next March, on this year's corporate earnings should be considerably higher than the Treasury's take in 1953. With individual incomes totaling higher this year, too, the Treasury haul from this source should be higher.

In both cases the present high income tax rates apply. On next year's earnings and incomes there'll be some cut in rates and returns, which will show up in 1955 payments on 1954 incomes.

Earnings statements of corporations for the first nine months of 1953 show that as a whole they are putting aside 40 per cent more now to meet next March's federal income and excess profits tax bills than they did this time a year ago.

This is because corporate earnings before taxes, as reported so far, come to around 30 per cent more than in the same period last year. After taxes, the net income is running around 18 per cent higher than last year.

It was last year's lower than expected corporate tax payments—due in part to some costly 1952 strikes—which embarrassed the Treasury last June. The steel strike alone lopped about one billion dollars off the amount the steel companies had been expected to pay Uncle Sam on 1952 earnings.

When earnings drop, Uncle Sam loses even more than the companies, because he takes more than half of their earnings in taxes. Thanks to a 52 per cent corporate income tax plus the added bite of excess profit levies on many companies, the Treasury was taking around 55 per cent of corporate earnings in 1952.

With gross earnings higher this year, the excess profits tax is taking an even greater share. The total tax take is estimated to be around 60 per cent of total corporate gross earnings.

This will help the Treasury in March. But the trouble here is that almost 80 per cent of the Treasury's total revenue is in the form of corporate and individual income taxes. With rates due to be lowered on next year's income, any falling off in corporate earnings in 1954 because of a possible business dip, and any falling off in take-home pay of individuals would put an embarrassing crimp in Treasury revenues when payments are made in 1955.

Weekly Food Review

By Associated Press

Beef prices turned lower in many food stores this week. Eggs, chickens and pork also offered attractive bargains.

Lamb, which had long headed the list of bargain specials, moved higher in most cities.

Center cut pork chops were offered by one nationwide food chain at prices which ranged as much as 10 cents a pound under last week's levels. Chickens for frying and broiling were down two to five cents a pound; eggs down as much as six cents a dozen. Butter was a little higher.

Beef fanciers found sirloin steaks and beef rib roasts priced two to four cents lower than last week in many parts of the country. Pot roast, chuck and ground beef were among heavily promoted specials for the coming weekend.

On the produce counter, best buys of the week included apples, tokay grapes, radishes, spinach, cabbage, potatoes and onions. Grapefruit was the standout buy among the citrus fruits; California oranges were a little lower in price, Florida's a little higher.

The season's first tangerines from Florida arrived at big city markets this week and as usual they commanded high prices.

Fresh cranberries are plentiful and reasonably priced. There should be more than enough for Thanksgiving day feasting.

The lowly onion is featured by the Department of Agriculture as one of its "food headlines" this week. The current U.S. onion crop is one of the biggest on record—50 million sacks of 50 pounds each as compared to 39 million sacks last year.

Black pepper—expensive and practically impossible to come by at one time during World War II—is now a glut on the market. Pepper, which brought $1.40 a pound wholesale a month ago, can now be had for 99 cents. Bumper crops in India and Borneo account for the surplus.

ROK Envoy Says Reds Plan War

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The South Korean ambassador to the United States, here for a lecture today, says the Communists are violating the Korean truce and will launch "the most horrible of all wars."

Dr. You Chan Yang, in an interview last night, said the Reds are using the Korean truce to stockpile bombs and planes and settle their internal troubles.

When the time is ripe, he continued, "they will start the most horrible of all wars." He said the Reds had rebuilt 30 North Korean airfields and despite truce pledges are bringing in crated planes.

Shotgun Kills Lad

COLUMBUS (AP)—Police say Donald Renner, 14, accidentally shot and killed his 6-year-old playmate, Ronnie Sayre, yesterday when a shotgun discharged.

Newspapers Good But Can Be Improved

CHICAGO (AP)—Norman E. Isaacs, president of the Associated Press Managing Editors Assn., says that "newspaper objectivity and responsibility have increased steadily, but we are not yet good enough."

Isaacs, managing editor of the Louisville Times, made the statement in his report to the organization of editors of Associated Press newspapers here.

He recalled that since his election to the APME presidency a year ago he had traveled to various parts of the country and had "pleaded everywhere for a high ethical concept of journalism." He declared:

"Newspaper know-how, objectivity, fairness and responsibility have increased steadily through our time. All of us are better newspapermen today than we were 10 years ago. "But we are not yet good enough."

Isaacs asserted that, for further improvement, newspapering must adopt a "professionalism of the spirit." He explained:

"We have to approach our calling with the devotion of the minister, the skill of the doctor, the thoroughness of the scientist."

"Put them all together. You will have a fine, understanding, objective and responsible public servant."

"None of us can ask for any higher calling. Let us give our newspapers the love, the devoted attention and the high skill they need to flourish and grow."

"Let us all pull together to take newspapering forward."

Leader Named

COLUMBUS (AP)—The new executive secretary of the Ohio League of Young Republican Clubs is Theodore M. Gray of Piqua.

Services Held

COLUMBUS (AP)—Funeral services for Judge Edward S. Matthias, dean of Ohio Supreme Court jurists, were held here today. Judge Matthias, 80, was killed Monday in a fall from an upstairs window of his Columbus home.

City Judge Dies

CLEVELAND (AP)—Funeral services will be held in suburban Lakewood tomorrow afternoon for Judge Alpheus A. Stephens, 66, who had served on the Lakewood Municipal Court bench since 1945.

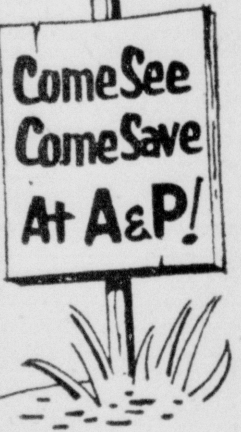

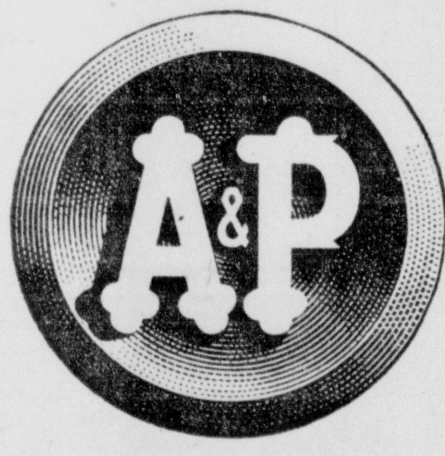

You can brighten the long days of convalescence with a well chosen gift of flowers that bring sunshine to a friend's bedside.

Independent Phone Firms Set Expansion

$25 Million Slated To Be Spent To Help Improve Service

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The 179 independent telephone companies in Ohio are spending more than $25 million this year to bring telephone service to 36,000 families.

So reports Daniel W. DeHayes, secretary of the Ohio Independent Telephone Assn. that recently surveyed its members on improvements they are making.

DeHayes said eight companies are spending more than one million each.

"Warfare material shortages are one, so we can get the copper and instruments to provide better telephone service all along the line for residents of small towns and rural areas," he said.

About one out of every three telephones in Ohio is on an independent line. The others are served by the Ohio Bell Telephone Co. Ohio Bell serves 25 per cent of the state's area, concentrating in cities, while independents cover 75 per cent of the state's area.

At the end of 1952, DeHayes said, there were 981,400 independent telephones in service, including 30,665 installed that year at a cost of $18,583,665.

Both General Telephone Co. of Ohio at Marion and Ohio Consolidated Telephone Co. at Portsmouth are investing heavily in the atomic plant area in Pike County.

Major independent telephone projects listed for completion this year include:

General Telephone, gross additions to plant of $4,200,000, including 21 new buildings.

Northern Ohio Telephone Co. of Bellevue, gross additions to plant of $1,300,000, including major building improvements at three towns.

Lima Telephone & Telegraph Co., gross additions to plant of $1,900,000, including two office projects.

Warren Telephone Co., gross additions of $1,300,000, including new Warren main exchange.

Mansfield Telephone Co., gross additions of $1,000,000.

Ohio Consolidated, gross additions of $1,759,327.

Lorain Telephone Co., gross additions of $1,092,160.

Newark Telephone Co., gross additions of $1,050,577, including new exchange at Newark and improvements at Granville exchange.

Other projects include:

Ashtabula Telephone Co. $377,578, Elyria Telephone Co. $325,000, Chillicothe Telephone Co. $200,000, Western Reserve Telephone Co.

$170,000, Citizens Telephone Co., Coolville, $100,000 Troy-Tipp Telephone Co. $95,000, Germantown Independent Telephone Co. $70,000, Champaign Telephone Co. $61,215, Logan Home Telephone Co. $60,000, Harrison Telephone Co. $57,000, Conneaut Telephone Co. $55,000, Kingsville Telephone Co. $50,000, $4,000.

Independent telephone companies in Ohio vary in size from 50 to 350,000 subscribers, with Cincinnati & Suburban being the largest.

First companies were formed in the late 1890, when the basic patent granted Alexander Graham Bell expired.

Today throughout the country Bell has five times as many subscribers as all the independents together. But the independents serve twice as many communities, says DeHayes.

He listed these "firsts" for independent companies:

Invention of the dial telephone by a Kansas City undertaker who thought his calls were being transferred to his competitors.

Ohio's first automatic exchange installed at St. Marys in 1904 by an independent company.

Ohio independent companies since the end of World War II have spent more than 90 million to add 225,000 telephones, DeHayes said. At the same time more than 100 Ohio exchanges were converted to automatic dial operation, benefiting 235,000 subscribers.

The companies had a total revenue of $41,598,968 last year, DeHayes said, and out of this paid taxes of $12,962,654.

You're in the driver's seat

for only $2245.88

It's your money, of course—but we'd like to see you make the most of it.

That's why we publish the price of the big Buick SPECIAL here—to make Point #1: you can buy this great performer for just a few dollars more than the so-called "low-price three."

But Point #2—the smart point—is this:

When you put up those few extra dollars for the Buick pictured here, you're in the driver's seat of a lot more automobile.

You boss extra power—more satisfying power—walloping Buick Fireball 8 power—highest ever found in a Buick SPECIAL.

You get extra room—a lot more comfortable room—real, man-sized, 6-passenger room—as much room as you get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

You enjoy extra satisfaction—more solid satisfaction—in the ride of this big, broad, road-steady traveler that's cushioned by coil springs on all four wheels, and engineered with all the other costly features of the Million Dollar Ride.

And, speaking of extras—here you get, at no extra cost, a long list of standard equipment that most other cars at or near the price of this Buick charge you for, as "extras" on the bill of sale.

So, as we said—it's your money—and it's your move.

If you're aiming for the driver's seat of a hard-to-beat buy—for a lot less than you think—come in and see us soon.

You're in the driver's seat for only $2245.88*

It's your money, of course—but we'd like to see you make the most of it.

That's why we publish the price of the big Buick SPECIAL here—to make Point #1: you can buy this great performer for just a few dollars more than the so-called "low-price three."

But Point #2—the smart point—is this:

When you put up those few extra dollars for the Buick pictured here, you're in the driver's seat of a lot more automobile.

You boss extra power—more satisfying power—walloping Buick Fireball 8 power—highest ever found in a Buick SPECIAL.

You get extra room—a lot more comfortable room—real, man-sized, 6-passenger room—as much room as you get in cars costing hundreds of dollars more.

You enjoy extra satisfaction—more solid satisfaction—in the ride of this big, broad, road-steady traveler that's cushioned by coil springs on all four wheels, and engineered with all the other costly features of the Million Dollar Ride.

And, speaking of extras—here you get, at no extra cost, a long list of standard equipment that most other cars at or near the price of this Buick charge you for, as "extras" on the bill of sale.

So, as we said—it's your money—and it's your move.

If you're aiming for the driver's seat of a hard-to-beat buy—for a lot less than you think—come in and see us soon.

Ohio Voter Reaction Varies On Special Issues And Levies

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Reaction of Ohio voters to special issues and levies was varied—many were approved and many were defeated.

Here's the state rundown on the special issues, by cities:

CLEVELAND — Approved a 3½ million-dollar bond issue for a subway to tie in with a 29½-million-dollar rapid transit system now under construction.

YOUNGSTOWN — Of five city bond issues, voters rejected a $425,000 issue for a city garage and a $500,000 issue for urban redevelopment; approved issues of $4,100,000 for street improvements, $330,000 for parks and playgrounds, and $730,000 for fire stations.

COLUMBUS — Approved a 14-million-dollar bond issue to modernize public schools, and seven mill operating levy for school district.

PORTSMOUTH — Approved $3,600,000 school bond issue and a three-mill levy for schools; defeated $255,000 improvement bond issue and one-mill city levy.

EAST LIVERPOOL — Four eastern Columbiana County townships comprising second largest school district in state rejected $450,000 bond issue for new high school.

MANSFIELD — Defeated city and township school bond issues totaling five million dollars. The city issue would have provided $4,400,000 for new schools and improvement of existing facilities.

LORAIN — Passed a four-mill school levy but defeated a memorial building bond issue.

CANTON — Defeated one-half per cent city income tax proposal, opposed by CIO, AFL and railroad unions.

PIQUA — Approved $1,850,000 school bond issue.

CIRCLEVILLE — Pickaway County passed three-tenths mill levy for five years to provide funds for treatment of tuberculosis patients.

LANCASTER — City repealed its one-half of one per cent income tax. Tax was repealed in the November 1952 election, then reenacted by a Democratic council, and repealed again in Tuesday's action. Fairfield County approved three district school and issues.

CINCINNATI — Voted against a proposition to add fluorides to water as an aid in preventing tooth decay in children.

AKRON — Passed a 10-million-dollar sewer bond issue.

ALLIANCE — Turned down a $2,275,000 school bond issue and a $225,000 bond issue for a hospital addition. Both lacked required 55 per cent for passage.

MARIETTA — Voted down a proposal for city income tax voted to continue city garbage collection.

WEST UNION — Voted to have city put in parking meters.

DAYTON — Passed a 6.5-mill school bond levy and approved one mill hospital levy, a $300,000 bond issue for more voting machines and a $500,000 bond issue to improve county auditorium in Dayton.

MARION — Defeated three county-wide levy proposals which would have supplied the money for an elevator at the court house, a new wing to the county home and county operating expenses.

BELLEFONTAINE — All special school, village and township tax levies carried, but DeGraff's $68,000 sewer bond issue and Miami Township's bond issue for a $6,000 garage were defeated.

LOGAN — West Hocking School District, in first chance voters have had to express an opinion on school district merger, turned down a $635,000 bond issue for a new central high school.

ATHENS — Defeated Athens city school bond issue for $1,393,000 and a countywide three-tenths of mill levy for tuberculosis care. Passed bond issue for $200,000 for children's home addition.

VAN WERT — Approved $175,000 city school bond issue for two new additions, and $150,000 bond issue of Ohio City schools, for equipment. Convoy-Union, York, Jennings, Willshire school special levies for operating expenses approved. Venedocia village levy for fire protection approved; Harrison Twp. special levy for current expenses approved; Jennings Twp. levy defeated.

MOUNT VERNON — Defeated Kooking Valley school bond issue (Knox County) for $685,000, and Fredericktown school bond issue of $495,000.

CHILLICOTHE — City voters approved reduction in the work week for city firemen to 36 hours; defeated a three-mill operating levy which would have paid salaries for more firemen. Firemen now work 72 hours a week. Also defeated were a three-tenths of mill recreation levy and a $150,000 bond issue to provide money for city to buy a building from board of education. Ross County voters approved a three-tenths of mill levy for care of tuberculosis patients.

SPRINGFIELD — Mad River-Green School District passed 3.73 mill levy for 23 years designed to produce $430,000 for new school; Northeastern and Southeastern school districts approved three-mill levies for operating expenses.

ASHTABULA — Passed a 1½ million dollar bond issue for new sewage disposal plant.

CLEVELAND HEIGHTS — Approved along with University Heights and South Euclid, a $34 million dollar bond issue for new building construction and a 12.8 mill operating levy.

BAY VILLAGE — Defeated a

$130,000 bond issue for construction of a municipal swimming pool.

ROCKY RIVER — Sustained Council's action giving Cuyahoga County permission to build a new bridge through Clifton Park to Lake Avenue. Passed a $965,000 school bond issue, but defeated a $500,000 municipal swimming pool bond issue.

SHAKER HEIGHTS — Passed a $4,100,000 school bond issue and a one-million-dollar municipal bond issue and a seven-mill levy in the school district. Also passed a $675,000 bond issue for a city incinerator and a $300,000 bond issue for swimming pools, but defeated a $600,000 issue for a city hall, and a two mill levy for current expenses.

PAINEVILLE — Passed a $25,000 bond issue for fire equipment, a $200,000 issue to construct sewage disposal facilities, a half-mill levy for recreation expenses and 6.8 mill levy renewal for operation of township schools.

MEDINA — Passed a $100,000 bond issue for sewage disposal facilities and a five and seven tenths mill levy renewal for the school district.

STEUBENVILLE — Defeated $600,000 bond issue for railroad underpass.

MINGO JUNCTION — Passed $500,000 bond issue for school repairs and new gymnasium. Also passed $298,000 bond issue for new municipal building.

TORONTO — Defeated $600,000 bond issue for school expansion.

JEFFERSON COUNTY — Defeated 1½ million dollar bond issue for Courthouse remodeling.

Kirchner Given 2-20 Years In Pen

FINDLAY — Common Pleas Judge A. V. Baumann yesterday sentenced Joseph C. Kirchner of Findlay to 2-20 years in Ohio Penitentiary for bribery.

He fined him some $3,000 for illegal sale of horsemeat. Kirchner, head of the Kay Brand Packing Co., was fined $5,800 and sentenced to consecutive 1-10 year terms on 28 bribery counts last spring. An appeals court ordered a retrial on a technicality. Kirchner then pleaded guilty.

Field Of Imagination Separates The Living From The Living Dead

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (AP)—Some grown-ups always feel that anything a child can do they can do better. But can they? Particularly in the field of the imagination, the gift that separates the living from the living dead.

Well, let's put it to the test. First, we'll see how one child met a classroom problem and then see how well you can do with a similar problem.

Ten-year-old Carolyn (Sandy) Blakeslee is in the fifth grade. Her teacher, as an exercise in imagination, asked the class to make up stories about anything just so they include a dozen simple words, such as dentist, wedding, weight, hotel.

Here is the story little "Sandy" wrote without help of any kind:

The bow-legged kitten

Once upon a time there was a 2-week old kitten and she was bow-legged and all of her brothers and sisters just laughed at her.

Her name was Munchy and she was all black except for a white tip on the end of her tail and a white star under her chin. She was very lonely and unhappy.

One day after she had finished lapping up her milk and stuffing herself full of cat food and being teased—as usual—she said to herself, "Why should I stay there and be teased the rest of my life? I'll run away! That's what I'll do!"

So, the next day she was on her way.

On her way she stopped to take her weight in a drug store. And she stopped to go to the dentist and the dentist had to use the drill on one of her teeth.

Soon she came to a meadow and she saw something coming up slowly through the weeds and grass. It was a puppy, a cross-eyed puppy. And soon they were friends, and what a pair they were!

That night they had to rent a room in the Statler Hotel.

The next morning Munchy put on a plaid skirt and yellow blouse and was she a sight. The sleeves were brown.

Rover, who was Munchy's friend, was a poet, and had a very good brain.

One day while they were very far from home Rover and Munchy started to get lonely and homesick but they just went on.

That day late in the afternoon Munchy and Rover saw a cave so Rover started to investigate and Munchy did not want Rover to go in the cave, so she went in too.

All of a sudden a wolf came in from the entrance and they were trapped. And Munchy got so scared that she straightened out her legs and she was not bow-legged any more, and Rover was not cross-eyed either.

But the wolf was a friendly wolf, and said, "Hi-ya, kitten, whatcha doin' tonight?" and with that Munchy fainted. Just then the wolf's wife came in and said, "Well! Henry, I'm surprised at you. What do mean about a date tonight? Just for that you can't watch the football game to-night."

A week later Munchy and Rover were sure they were in love. So June 27th they were on a hotel terrace and Rover said to Munchy, "Will you marry me?"

"Why, yes," said Munchy.

On July 24th it was their wedding and the floor was made from solid marble. And the curtains were red velvet and it was a beautiful wedding.

A lot of people were invited including the wolf and his wife.

"Sandy" received a grade of A-plus and a gold star for her tale.

Now for that test of your grownup imagination. Naturally, you're too proud to want to use fifth grade words. So, get out your pencil, and write any kind of a story using the following dozen simple adult words: Astraphobia, malahack, posology, malagma, corvine, smaik, supinator vair, wap, yang and zoster.

Ready? Go! We'll just tiptoe quietly away—you let us know when the story is done. Take all the time you want.

2 Men Fined, Another Gets 60-Day Term

Two men were fined and another was committed to jail Wednesday by the court of Magistrate Oscar Root.

Jersey Legalizes Bingo, Raffles

NEWARK, N. J. (AP)—Charity-sponsored bingo and raffles—for years a political football in New Jersey—has been given an overwhelming vote of approval by the state's electorate.

A constitutional amendment to exempt bingo and raffles from the state's anti-gambling laws was okayed by the voters yesterday 928-070 to 368,917.

The next step—providing for specific regulations—is up to the Legislature. The amendment also calls for local option to give municipalities an opportunity to decide if they want bingo and raffles in their areas.

Field Of Imagination Separates The Living From The Living Dead

By HAL BOYLE
NEW YORK (U)—Some grown-ups always feel that anything a child can do they can do better. But can they? Particularly in the field of the imagination, the gift that separates the living from the living dead.

Well, let's put it to the test. First, we'll see how one child met a classroom problem and then see how well you can do with a similar problem.

Ten-year-old Carolyn (Sandy) Blakeslee is in the fifth grade. Her teacher, as an exercise in imagination, asked the class to make up stories about anything ju- so they include a dozen simple words, such as dentist, wedding, weight, hotel.

Here is the story little "Sandy" wrote without help of any kind:

The bow-legged kitten

Once upon a time there was a 2-week old kitten and she was bow-legged and all of her brothers and sisters just laughed at her.

Her name was Munchy and she was all black except for a white tip on the end of her tail and a white star under her chin. She was very lonely and unhappy.

One day after she had finished lapping up her milk and stuffing herself full of cat food and being teased—as usual—she said to herself, "Why should I stay there and be teased the rest of my life? I'll run away! That's what I'll do!"

So, the next day she was on her way.

On her way she stopped to take her weight in a drug store. And she stopped to go to the dentist and the dentist had to use the drill on one of her teeth.

Soon she came to a meadow and she saw something coming up slowly through the weeds and grass. It was a puppy, a cross-eyed puppy. And soon they were friends, and what a pair they were!

That night they had to rent a room in the Statler Hotel.

The next morning Munchy put on a plaid skirt and yellow blouse and was she a sight. The sleeves were brown.

Rover, who was Munchy's friend, was a poet, and had a very good brain.

One day while they were very far from home Rover and Munchy started to get lonely and homesick but they just went on.

That day late in the afternoon Munchy and Rover saw a cave so Rover started to investigate and Munchy did not want Rover to go in the cave, so she went in too.

All of a sudden a wolf came in from the entrance and they were trapped. And Munchy got so scared that she straightened out her legs and she was not bow-legged any more, and Rover was not cross-eyed either.

But the wolf was a friendly wolf, and said, "Hi-ya, kitten, whatcha doin' tonight?" and with that Munchy fainted. Just then the wolf's wife came in and said, "Well! Henry, I'm surprised at you. What do mean about a date tonight? Just for that you can't watch the football game tonight."

A week later Munchy and Rover were sure they were in love. So June 27th they were on a hotel terrace and Rover said to Munchy, "Will you marry me?"

"Why, yes," said Munchy.

On July 24th it was their wedding and the floor was made from solid marble. And the curtains were red velvet and it was a beautiful wedding.

A lot of people were invited including the wolf and his wife.

"Sandy" received a grade of A-plus and a gold star for her tale.

Now for that test of your grownup imagination. Naturally, you're too proud to want to use fifth grade words. So, get out your pencil, and write any kind of a story using the following dozen simple adult words: Astraphobia, malaback, posology, malagma, corvine, smaik, supinator vair, wap, yang and zoster.

Ready? Go! We'll just tiptoe quietly away—you let us know when the story is done. Take all the time you want.

'Balk' Ruling Gets Tightened

NEW YORK (AP)—When the umpire yells "balk" next season the pitcher better not follow through. The batter might hit a home run. And it would count.

The balk rule came in for considerable revision yesterday as the baseball rules committee, a nine man group representing the majors and the minors, ended its first rewriting session in two years.

Under the new rule a batter who hits a pitch on which a balk has been committed has the choice of taking the balk called on the pitcher or the result of his swing.

In the past the ball was dead as soon as the balk was called by the umpire. The runners could advance only one base and the batter had to resume his place at the plate.

Rabbit Costs Hunters $211.40
MILFORD (AP)—Justice of the Peace Homer H. Ernst hung a dead rabbit outside his office yesterday and attached a sign which read, "This cost $211.40."

The idea was to discourage hunters who might get itching trigger fingers and open the rabbit season ahead of time.

Riley Johnson, 31, of Norwood and Paul Rush, 38, of Loveland were caught with the rabbit Justice Ernst confiscated. State Game Protector Edgar Anstett charged them with hunting out of season and Ernst fined each of them $100 plus $5.70 costs to make that $211.40 total.

Cleveland Browns Set For Steelers
CLEVELAND (AP)—Cleveland's muscular Browns, jealously protecting the only undefeated record in pro football, take on the in-and-out Pittsburgh Steelers Sunday at Municipal Stadium.

Tigers Expected To Have Weight, Scoring Edges Over Panther Crew

Red and Black gridders of Circleville High School will meet a well-balanced but apparently not too powerful Delaware Black Panther squad Friday night on the Panther battleground.

Tiger footballers will be favored in the fracas, both from a weight standpoint and from a comparison of performances so far this season.

So far, Circleville's Tigers have claimed four victories in seven starts. The Delaware Panthers to date boast only one victory and one tie in seven encounters.

Circleville's warriors have tallied a total of 110 points against their foes this year for an average of 15.7 points per game. The CHS'ers have allowed their opponents only 94 points (bolstered by the 47-0 setback at the hands of Miami) for an average of only 13.4 points to date.

DELAWARE in its seven games has scored only 53 points while allowing its opposition a total of 118. The Black Panther average per game has been only 7.5 points; its opponents have marked up an average of 16.8 points.

Delaware Mentor Dave Rayburn said his charges probably will average only about 160 on the forward wall, with an equally light backfield.

Bringing up the average weight of the attack group somewhat is Fullback Dick Shaw, 180, who is expected to lead the offensive show against the CHS'ers.

Probable starting offensive unit for the host club in Friday's encounter, next-to-the-last for the locals, will be:

Ends—Dick Reese and George Marburger.

Tackles—Steve Robinson and Jim Gale.

Guards—Harry Spencer and Don Creasy.

Center—Herman Maschman.

Quarterback—John Talley.

Halfbacks—Dick Payne and Bill Poling.

Fullback—Dick Shaw.

CIRCLEVILLE's starting lineup for the fracas probably will remain the same as in previous tests, with Don Skinner and Tom Strawser at ends; Jim Leist and Jim Arledge

Hayes Rah-Rahs For His Bucks

COLUMBUS (AP) — Woody Hayes, coach of the Ohio State team which is a 10-point underdog to Michigan State, snapped out this statement last night:

"Our kids have never played dead for anybody. We'll never quit. I don't know whether we'll win Saturday but I do know we will never give up."

He told a local Quarterback Club not to be scared by the report of Ohio Scout Gene Fekete, who marveled over Michigan State's depth, speed and defense and said the Spartans are the best defensive team in the Big Ten.

Memorial Field Dedication Set

WILMINGTON (AP) — Townsend Memorial Field, built in honor of the late H. O. Townsend, Ohio's first high school athletic commissioner, will be dedicated at Wilmington College Saturday.

Dedication of the field will be conducted in connection with the Wilmington - Earlham football game.

Townsend, who was graduated by Wilmington in 1909, was one of the leaders in the founding of the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He served as its commissioner until his death in 1944.

Cop Hauls In His Namesake

BOSTON (AP) — Patrolman Thomas F. Kennedy looked up eagerly in Municipal Court yesterday when the name of a parking law violator was called.

The defendant was Thomas F. Kennedy of Brookline who paid a $1 fine for an overtime parking tag issued by Patrolman Kennedy, no relation.

"I'd been wondering what you looked like," Patrolman Kennedy commented. Citizen Kennedy, still smarting about the fine, smiled wanly and left the courthouse.

Kid Highballers Get Real Treat

HAGERSTOWN, MD. (AP) — Casey Jones Jr. never had it so good. Kids here are getting a real locomotive and tender to play with. It won't go anywhere. Just sit there in Municipal Park.

But the kids will be able to blow the whistle, ring the bell and there'll even be smoke coming out the stack.

Old No. 202, built in 1912 and worth about $40,000, is the gift of the Western Maryland Railway to budding Hagerstown highballers.

Far East Army Aides Face Firing

TOKYO (AP) — The Army said today it will send dismissal notices by Nov. 10 to a "considerable number" of American civilians it employs in the Far East, because of a shortage of funds.

An announcement said the Army also will send dismissal notices to 5,007 Japanese nationals by the same date.

Deer Wins Duel With Automobile

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP) — Paul Gregg, 42-year-old coal miner, said yesterday he was driving to work in his new car in the Cheat Mountain section and met a deer.

Said Gregg: "The deer lowered his head and charged the front of my car. He backed off and charged again. Then he strolled off into the woods."

"Cost me $500 to fix that car."

Present Irish Players Know How It Feels To Be Beaten

Editor's Note: The following is the last in a series of articles on the 1953 Notre Dame football team and its coach, Frank Leahy.

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP) — Undeclared Notre Dame is reaching for football's pinnacle again after winning only 18 of 29 games in the past three seasons.

That relapse from 1950 through 1952 came after Frank Leahy's Fighting Irish had lost only seven games in nine preceding seasons and were unbeaten from 1946 until early 1950 in 39 straight games.

The current Irish team, No. 1 in The Associated Press national poll, is studied with players who know what it means to be beaten.

There are some good football players on the squad, to be sure, but, as a whole, the team falls below comparison with the 1946, 1947 or 1949 Irish squads.

Yet the Irish have marched to victories over Oklahoma, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech and Navy. And the odds are growing that Leahy has blended the right ingredients for his third perfect Notre Dame season since he took over in 1941 as Elmer Layden's successor.

Close observers have noted that Leahy is trying his best to develop the "shock" troop formula of Knute Rockne. But until last Saturday's romp over Navy, the reserves couldn't be entrusted with too much handling both ways football.

If against Penn, North Carolina, Purdue, Southern California and Southern Methodist, Leahy can fully utilize a half dozen or so promising sophomores the Irish may definitely have a world-beater before the season ends.

At this writing, Leahy himself is the biggest question mark in the Irish camp. Since halftime of the important Georgia Tech conquest on Oct. 24, the coach has been convalescing from an attack of acute pancreatitis.

But undoubtedly Leahy wants to get back at the throttle as soon as possible so he can start working on next season's personnel.

He would like to get such sopho-

Why would they want to know about the bathrooms? And how can it assist in formulating a course of study for the child, unless he is to become a tenor who sings in his bath.

Or maybe whoever drew up the questionnaire is of an ancient vintage, remembering that the old out-house was a sort of library in which the Sears Roebuck catalogue was kept to improve one's English.

Today, youth prefers Kinsey's report on how wicked the parents are, most of whom, particularly the mothers, ought to be in jail anyhow.

I am terribly puzzled by that bathroom question because I cannot discover its relationship to home economics. But a guide to it is the very last question, No. 25, which wants to know whether you own an automobile, what year, and how many.

The purpose of all these questions is to "provide the best educational program for your children." But what has the year of your car to do with that? Suppose you own a model T Ford, does that mean that the child is a dope? Johann Sebastian Bach's father never even heard of an automobile; yet, Johann did not badly at all.

I never know why questionnaires are answered. They are probably issued because those who get them up had some time on an off day.

ue as king of the football hill. Leahy often has said during the past few years that Notre Dame is finding it increasingly difficult to lure standout prep football players, who can meet the school's scholastic standards.

That might be the pat speech of any coach, but the Irish record from 1950 through 1952 seems to bear him out.

The advantage of a brilliant season this year—towards which the Irish seem headed—could beckon the prospective stars who chose to perform elsewhere the past few years. But the freshmen of next year won't do him much good until 1956 or 1957.

It is calculated that Notre Dame has only 24 or so freshmen football players on what might be termed scholarships. These athletes hold "full service credit jobs," based on board and room pay for work put in.

Notre Dame authorities are quick to point out that once a "full service credit job" is awarded, the student retains that as long as his grades are satisfactory and whether or not he fails as a player through injury or lack of talent.

Notre Dame's newfound invincibility may not continue any further than Saturday's Penn game, but the Irish always will be a tough team to beat because they eat, sleep and live football.

Tigers Expected To Have Weight, Scoring Edges Over Panther Crew

Red and Black gridders of Circleville High School will meet a well-balanced but apparently not too powerful Delaware Black Panther squad Friday night on the Panther battleground.

Tiger footballers will be favored in the fracas, both from a weight standpoint and from a comparison of performances so far this season.

So far, Circleville's Tigers have claimed four victories in seven starts. The Delaware Panthers to date boast only one victory and one tie in seven encounters.

Circleville's warriors have tallied a total of 110 points against their foes this year for an average of 15.7 points per game. The CHS'ers have allowed their opponents only 94 points (bolstered by the 47-0 setback at the hands of Miamiburg) for an average of only 13.4 points to date.

DELAWARE in its seven games has scored only 53 points while allowing its opposition a total of 118. The Black Panther average per game has been only 7.5 points; its opponents have marked up an average of 16.8 points.

Delaware Mentor Dave Rayburn said his charges probably will average only about 160 on the forward wall, with an equally light backfield.

Bringing up the average weight of the attack group somewhat is Fullback Dick Shaw, 180, who is expected to lead the offensive show against the CHS'ers.

Probable starting offensive unit for the host club in Friday's encounter, next-to-the-last for the locals, will be:

Ends—Dick Reese and George Marburger.

Tackles—Steve Robinson and Jim Gale.

Guards—Harry Spencer and Don Cressy.

Center—Herman Maschman.

Quarterback—John Talley.

Halfbacks—Dick Payne and Bill Poling.

Fullback—Dick Shaw.

CIRCLEVILLE'S starting lineup for the fracas probably will remain the same as in previous tests, with Don Skinner and Tom Strawser at ends; Jim Leist and Jim Arledge at tackles; Bill Barthelmas and Dave Bircher at guards; Paul Allison at center; Ron Bennington at quarter; Tom Elsea and Joe Hill at the halves; and Big George Troutman at fullback.

The CHS marching band is expected to accompany the Tigers to the encounter in the final "away" game of the year.

Black Panther gridders will be clad in all-white uniforms trimmed in black for the skirmish, while the CHS'ers are expected to use their all-red "away" suits for the tiff.

For local rooters who will follow the team, Delaware Coach Rayburn says the field is located in the west side of the city. Drivers may follow Route 23 into Delaware and then turn left at the Ohio Wesleyan College library.

Another Booster Meeting Planned

Another attempt at organizing Circleville's Booster Club will be made at a special meeting at 7:30 p. m. Sunday in the high school social rooms.

A meeting held Tuesday night at the school was poorly attended and no action was taken toward election of new leaders.

In addition to electing a panel of new officers, Boosters attending Sunday's special confab will lay plans for the annual Booster football banquet, which probably will be held in early December.

Illinois Data Prove Prowess

CHICAGO (AP)—Illinois' drive towards the Big Ten football championship, after being rated out of the race by pre-season dopesters, has been anything but a fluke, official conference records show.

The Illini, geared by the nation's No. 1 ground gainer, J. C. Caroline, who has flashed 554 yards in three league games, lead the Big Ten in offense and are second to Michigan State on defense.

Illinois has averaged 392.7 yards per game, easily topping its two nearest rivals, Ohio State with 338.8 and Wisconsin with 338.2.

Hayes Rah-Rahs For His Bucks

COLUMBUS (AP)—Woody Hayes, coach of the Ohio State team which is a 10-point underdog to Michigan State, snapped out this statement last night:

"Our kids have never played dead for anybody. We'll never quit. I don't know whether we'll win Saturday but I do know we will never give up."

He told a local Quarterback Club not to be scared by the report of Ohio Scout Gene Fekete, who marveled over Michigan State's depth, speed and defense and said the Spartans are the best defensive team in the Big Ten.

Memorial Field Dedication Set

WILMINGTON (AP)—Townsend Memorial Field, built in honor of the late H. O. Townsend, Ohio's first high school athletic commissioner, will be dedicated at Wilmington College Saturday.

Dedication of the field will be conducted in connection with Wilmington - Earlham football game.

Townsend, who was graduated by Wilmington in 1909, was one of the leaders in the founding of the Ohio High School Athletic Association. He served as its commissioner until his death in 1944.

Cop Hauls In His Namesake

BOSTON (AP)—Patrolman Thomas F. Kennedy looked up eagerly in Municipal Court yesterday when the name of a parking law violator was called.

The defendant was Thomas F. Kennedy of Brookline who paid a $1 fine for an overtime parking tag issued by Patrolman Kennedy, no relation.

"I'd been wondering what you looked like," Patrolman Kennedy commented. Citizen Kennedy, still smarting about the fine, smiled wanly and left the courthouse.

Kid Highballers Get Real Treat

HAGERSTOWN, MD. (AP)—Casey Jones Jr. never had it so good. Kids here are getting a real locomotive and tender to play with. It won't go anyplace. Just sit there in Municipal Park.

But the kids will be able to blow the whistle, ring the bell and there'll even be smoke coming out the stack.

Old No. 202, built in 1912 and worth about $40,000, is the gift of the Western Maryland Railway to budding Hagerstown highballers.

Far East Army Aides Face Firing

TOKYO (AP)—The Army said today it will send dismissal notices by Nov. 10 to a "considerable number" of American civilians it employs in the Far East, because of a shortage of funds.

An announcement said the Army also will send dismissal notices to 5,007 Japanese nationals by the same date.

Deer Wins Duel With Automobile

MORGANTOWN, W. Va. (AP)—Paul Gregg, 42-year-old coal miner, said yesterday he was driving to work in his new car in the Cheat Mountain section and met a deer.

Said Gregg: "The deer lowered his head and charged the front of my car. He backed off and charged again. Then he strolled off into the woods."

"Cost me $500 to fix that car."

Present Irish Players Know How It Feels To Be Beaten

Editor's Note: The following is the last in a series of articles on the 1953 Notre Dame football team and its coach, Frank Leahy.

By JERRY LISKA

SOUTH BEND, Ind. (AP)—Undefeated Notre Dame is reaching for football's pinnacle again after winning only 18 of 29 games in the past three seasons.

That relapse from 1950 through 1952 came after Frank Leahy's Fighting Irish had lost only seven games in nine preceding seasons and were unbeaten from 1946 until early 1950 in 39 straight games.

The current Irish team, No. 1 in The Associated Press national poll, is studded with players who know what it means to be beaten.

There are some good football players on the squad, to be sure, but, as a whole, the team falls below comparison with the 1946, 1947 or 1949 Irish squads.

Yet the Irish have marched to victories over Oklahoma, Purdue, Pittsburgh, Georgia Tech and Navy. And the odds are growing that Leahy has blended the right ingredients for his third perfect Notre Dame season since he took over in 1941 as Elmer Layden's successor.

Close observers have noted that Leahy is trying his best to develop the "shock" troop formula of Knute Rockne. But until last Saturday's romp over Navy, the reserves couldn't be entrusted with too much handling both ways football.

If against Penn, North Carolina, Purdue, Southern California and Southern Methodist, Leahy can fully utilize a half dozen or so promising sophomores the Irish may definitely have a world-beater before the season ends.

At this writing, Leahy himself is the biggest question mark in the Irish camp. Since halftime of the important Georgia Tech conquest on Oct. 24, the coach has been convalescing from an attack of acute pancreatitis.

But undoubtedly Leahy wants to get back at the throttle as soon as possible so he can start working on next season's personnel.

He would like to get such sophomore backs as Dick Fitzgerald, Dick Washington and Johnny Gaffney fire-tested to replace Johnny Lattner and Neil Worden, current ball-carrying stars, who are seniors.

On those youngsters hinge the chances for Notre Dame to continue as king of the football hill. Leahy often has said during the past few years that Notre Dame is finding it increasingly difficult to lure standout prep football players, who can meet the school's scholastic standards.

That might be the pat speech of any coach, but the Irish record from 1950 through 1952 seems to bear him out.

The advantage of a brilliant season this year—towards which the Irish seem headed—could beckon the prospective stars who chose to perform elsewhere the past few years. But the freshmen of next year won't do him much good until 1956 or 1957.

It is calculated that Notre Dame has only 24 or so freshmen football players on what might be termed "full service credit jobs," based on board and room pay for work put in.

Notre Dame authorities are quick to point out that once a "full service credit job" is awarded, the student retains that as long as his grades are satisfactory and whether or not he fails as a player through injury or lack of talent. Notre Dame's newfound invincibility may not continue any further than Saturday's Penn game, but the Irish always will be a tough team to beat because they eat, sleep and live football.

Bulk Feed System Being Used On Modern Farms Today

Method Said Profitable On Larger Farms

Housewives Against System Because Of Sewing

"Untouched by human hands — never lifted by man-power" is a reality today on some of the most efficient farms where bulk handling of formula feeds for livestock and poultry makes lugging 100-pound bags obsolete.

The system is slowly coming of age. Feeders who use tons of commercial feeds instead of pounds or sacks, have been the mainstay of bulk feeding to date. It takes large purchases to make the practice economical.

The idea of unsacked feed got started in 1948, in large livestock or poultry producing areas along both coasts. Jute was scarce and the difference between bagged and bulk feed often was $9 to $10 a ton. Today the system has spread to the broiler areas of the south and to some, Corn Belt farms.

One of the most far-flung tests in the Corn Belt is being made by the Illinois Farm Supply Co.

AFTER ONE YEAR, only a small percentage of the total feed business of the company was in bulk. Nonetheless, in a move to accommodate new business, four new storage bins were built and a 50-ton scale went in to weigh trucks while being filled.

An Iowa feed dealer has a lot of cattle feeders among his bulk feed customers. He credits labor saving with the popularity of bulk feed.

"It makes feed handling easier for old men, boys and women, when they don't have to wrestle 100-pound sacks," the dealer says. Although bulk feed delivery saves plenty of hard work, it also demands special equipment. It can require the installation of high-priced equipment by mills, dealers and farmers.

Some of you are already set-up to use the gravity system or conveyor to move feed from trucks to bins and then to bunkers or feeders. If so you would be out no additional expense.

Others can use bulk feed with no new equipment by scooping or handling it with human labor and save only the difference in cost. They just don't go all the way with the "fluidizing" principle.

SOME COMPANIES provide construction plans for bins and feeding systems to help solve the problem. One firm delivers feed in 2,500-pound metal tanks which are moved from the truck to farm platforms with a special hoist.

A number of larger feed manufacturers were contacted to get their ideas on bulk feed delivery.

"Feed makers do not consider it as something that can be applied generally over the entire market and they are faced with the difficult decision of whether to offer both methods of delivery in some areas," questioners were told.

"To make bulk feed available to their dealers would require a huge investment in additional storage and handling equipment at both dealer and manufacturer levels. This would not eliminate the need for present bagging equipment.

"So feed makers cannot be expected to utter a cry of joy and jump into bulk delivery with both feet. Some companies are trying the idea in limited areas; others are making special studies."

Brand identity is the stock in trade of the industry and has been a big factor in the growth of formula feed. In a bag you can spot each company's feed. In bulk many feeds might look alike.

ALSO, TAGS on each bag guarantee analysis and weight of contents. State feed control officials have more difficulty making periodic examination of loose materials.

Another argument for sacked feed comes from the housewife who likes to sew. The pretty prints are used for everything from kitchen curtains to sport shirts. Chicken feed in 50-pound bags overcomes her objection to handling the big sacks, and still gives her the pretty material.

So there is room for both bagged and bulk feed. You may never use bulk; others will find it speeds chores.

Mice Set Fire; Cat Sounds Alarm

DURANGO, Colo. (P) — Roy Boughman's cat won't catch mice, but he makes a splendid fire warden.

Puss pawed and purred until he got Boughman out of bed at midnight. Boughman arose, thinking the cat wanted out for a nocturnal stroll.

On his way back from the door, Boughman found the kitchen filled with smoke. He noticed it in time to put out a fire in the wall before serious damage resulted.

Mice apparently started the blaze by chewing on kitchen matches—the same mice the cat steadfastly refuses to chase.

Texas Planning Cancer Research

HOUSTON, Tex. (P) — The University of Texas Hospital for Cancer Research here is installing a 10-ton, 22-million-volt betatron.

The mammoth X-ray research weapon is housed in a vault with six-foot thick walls and augments the hospital's three-million-volt cobalt-60.

Combined the two machines are $150,000 worth of hope that some new inroad can be made against cancer.

QUEEN ELIZABETH II of England is shown, in this radiophoto from London, leaving the Houses of Parliament after delivering her speech from the throne, formally opening Parliament. Voicing the views of the Churchill government, she called for an early meeting between Russia and the West. The speech was prepared by her ministers. (International)

Town Hauls In Parking Meters

CHEBOYGAN, Mich. (P) — Put this city along the Straits of Mackinac down as likely having the nation's strangest harbinger of winter. It is the disappearance of parking meters.

City Council has ordered them picked up Nov. 10 and stored until spring. Icy winds whipping between Lakes Michigan and Huron chill the oil and they don't work properly in winter.

Ohio Court Stays Man's Execution

COLUMBUS (P) — The Ohio Supreme Court has stayed the execution of Russell Muskus, scheduled to die in the electric chair Nov. 20, until Dec. 18 to permit appeal to the U. S. Supreme Court.

Muskus, 31, of Kankakee, Ill., was convicted of the necktie strangling of George J. LeMasters, 43, of New Philadelphia, Dec. 2, 1950.

Colombia Press Ban Suspended

BOGOTA, Colombia (P) — President Gustavo Rojas Pinilla has told delegates of the National Newspapermen's Congress which winds up a session here today that Colombia's press censorship will remain suspended until the government draws up a new press law.

Italians Clash With Trieste Cops

TRIESTE (P) — Pro-Italian demonstrators clashed with police in a stick-swinging, stone-throwing riot in this disputed city today on the anniversary of Italy's entry into Trieste after World War I. A number of persons were injured by police clubs.

Reporter Says Soviet In Mess

CANTON (P) — "Russia is in a mess," Eddy Gilmore, former Moscow bureau chief for the Associated Press, told 350 Timken Roller Bearing Co. guests here last night.

He said many people in this country overestimate the strength of the Russians whom he described as "weak, bluffing, playing for time."

Life Term At 83

LIMA (P) — Robert H. Harris, convicted of killing Mrs. Norah Sparks, 46, last Dec. 26, yesterday was sentenced to life in Ohio Penitentiary. Harris is 83.

Third Set Twins Born To Couple

EVERETT, Mass. (P) — Mr. and Mrs. Ralph S. Trufant Jr., both 30, are the parents of a third successive set of twins. Twin girls were born to Mrs. Trufant at Whidden Memorial Hospital yesterday.

Their first set, both girls, was born in 1948. The second, both boys, was born in 1951.

Columbusites Face Contempt Action

COLUMBUS, Ohio (P) — Two Columbus persons who refused to answer questions when they appeared before the Ohio Un-American Activities Commission go on trial in Common Pleas Court here Nov. 16 for contempt of that body.

They are Mrs. Anna Morgan and Oscar Smilack, who appeared before the commission April 1, 1952. Common Pleas Judge William C. Bryant recently refused witnesses before the commission couldn't refuse to testify on grounds their answers would tend to incriminate them.
